MEXICAN U. S. CHAOS GRIPS SHANGHAI AS CANTONESE ENTER U. S. COURT'S RULING FELT IN APPLETON

AFFAIRS ARE NEAR CLIMAX

Action on Treaty Governing Smuggling Will Reflect Calles Attitude

NO TIME LIMIT IS SET Mexican Ambassador Has Opportunity to Discuss Plan With Superiors

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright 1927 By Post Pub. Co.
Washington — Relations between the United States and Mexico will be put on a satisfactory basis within the next few weeks or there will be an estrangement which may take a long time to erase.

It is true as Secretary Kellogg points out, that no ultimatum was sent. It is also true that many of the published stories about the "mystery note" have touched on collateral questions which are at issue. But basically the Mexican government has received by force of circumstances what amounts to a self-imposed ultimatum. In other words, there is a treaty which governs smuggling. It will expire soon if not renewed. It covers the importation into Mexico of arms and ammunition. Mexico has been told that the United States is not inclined to renew the treaty unless the whole relationship with Mexico is cleared up.

The effect of an expiration of the treaty would mean to let arms and ammunition go to whatever groups or elements want to buy supplies in the United States. And there are revolutionary elements ready to start trouble for their own reasons apart from the circumstances that the United States would be ineffective without the moral support from the existing Calles administration.

MUST ACT PROMPTLY

The United States did not say a decision must be reached within a certain time. But the Mexicans know that the renewal of the smuggling treaty must be accomplished almost immediately. The awakening of Mexico to the fact that the president and secretary of state really meant to go ahead with their policy has brought the situation to a climax. Ambassador Tellez went to Mexico City on account of the illness of his brother just as Ambassador Sheffield is planning to come north in June to attend his college reunion. But the presence of Ambassador Tellez in Mexico City has afforded an opportunity for discussion of a plan of settlement just as the proposed visit of Mr. Sheffield will enable officials here to confer on any pending questions.

There were, as the White House has indicated, a number of collateral questions which bear indirectly on the main issue of confiscation. The activities of an employee of the department of state, who is supposed to have furnished the Mexican embassy with details of the departments' work, have been discussed between the two governments according to information obtained from diplomatic sources. The American government is understood to have pointed out that it was highly unethical for the Mexican embassy to attempt to get information that way whereupon the Mexican authorities are said to have cited the activities of military attaches in foreign countries as a defense. The difference pointed out to Mexico is that while an attaché of a foreign embassy might collect all available information for his governments' use, he had no right to arrange to get this data by improper means. There are other questions such as the conduct of propaganda bureaus which are up for discussion but as explained in better detail by President Coolidge recently all collateral questions will disappear if there is an agreement on the problem of confiscation. Mexico's answer is being brought by Ambassador Tellez and officials are hopeful that the Mexican administration has developed a formula that will put Mexico and the United States on a better basis. Otherwise there is likely to be a long period of aloofness which will hardly contribute to good relations.

U. S. SPEED RECORDS MEAN LITTLE TO BRITISH RACER

Daytona Beach, Fla. —(AP)—American speed records have no bother for Major H. O. D. Seagrave, British racing driver. He hopes to tear along the ocean highway at 200 miles an hour, sooner or later, and as for the American record of 156.4, why he expects to better that in his first test spin Monday.

Major Seagrave announced that he would bring out his mystery car for a run at 155 or 160 miles an hour just to "see how the machine steers." Tommy Milton set the record recognized by the American Automobile association and over the same course the major uses.

The British racing experts adventure is costing him in the neighborhood of $20,000, he revealed, by paying the expense of this trip," he said.

TWO AGED CHILTON BROTHERS KILLED BY ESCAPING COAL GAS

Chilton — Two brothers, Herman and Ferdinand Paulsen, 70 and 65 respectively, were found dead from coal gas asphyxiation at their home at Gravesville, just north of Chilton, Monday morning. Mrs. Ferdinand Paulsen also was overcome and is in a precarious condition.

Mrs. Paulsen had returned from a Milwaukee hospital Sunday night and during the night she became ill. Her husband called his brother and the latter fixed the coal stove and then lay on a davenport in an adjoining room. The two brothers were found dead a few hours later.

'JEWISH CONSPIRACY' AGAIN IS ARGUED IN FORD LIBEL HEARING

Sapiro Attorney Says Combination Allegation Adds to Seriousness of Charge

Detroit —(AP)—The question of the possible connection of international Jewry with the $1,000,000 libel suit of Aaron Sapiro against Henry Ford came to the front again Monday. The jury was dismissed and decks cleared for extensive arguments by opposing counsel.

"It was the second time the question had cropped up. The first time, Federal Judge Fred M. Raymond temporarily got rid of the long delay by promising to cause by stating that he would rule when it became necessary."

That moment arrived Monday. Tracing the inception of the attacks upon Sapiro, Chicago attorney who became an organizer of farmers' cooperative associations, it was brought out from William J. Cameron, editor of the Ford-owned Dearborn Independent, that the series of articles comprising the libel suit had caused a million-dollar loss to his business, at first were intended to concern only Jews as a whole and that later they were turned to Sapiro as an individual.

If the articles had said only that Aaron Sapiro, the individual, was trying to subvert American agriculture, the world would have laughed, William Henry Gallagher, counsel for Sapiro, told the court.

It was a much more serious thing, he said, when the articles charged that Sapiro was connected with an international Jewish ring, by the Dearborn Independent, backed by all the wealth and power of Mr. Ford.

MAN IS KILLED IN STORM AT KENOSHA

Electrocuted by Fallen Wire—Thousands of Dollars Property Loss

Kenosha —(AP)—One man was killed and thousands of dollars in property damaged as the toll of the storm Saturday night in Kenosha. Joseph Pluta, 45, was electrocuted when he tried to lift a live wire from the front bumper of his automobile, after he had run into a fallen telephone pole about 4 o'clock Sunday morning. Alex Marinkus was asleep in the back seat of the car at the time and was unaware of what had happened until police awoke him two hours later, when the accident was discovered.

Several villages in the county were cut off from communication with the outside world when telephone wires went down early in the storm. The sleet and ice wrecked havoc with wires and trees through out the city and county.

DISMISS FURNITURE CASE; JURY DISAGREES

FOUR BRITONS WOUNDED BY MACHINE GUNS

Rioters Begin Looting in Foreign Zone—Guerilla War in Native Area

Shanghai —(AP)—Chaos reigned in Shanghai Monday night after the fall of city to Cantonese Monday morning. Rioters ran loose in the native quarter all day and Monday night a band of Chinese troops, presumably attached to the retreating northern army, broke through the barrier to the north of the international settlement and began looting.

A British armored car rushed up in response to a police call for aid. The car was subjected to continuous machine gun fire. Lieutenant Newman, Corporal Ainslie and two soldiers were wounded.

Savage guerilla fighting was going on in the native district of Chapel Monday night, between Shantungese (Northerners) including White Russians and plain clothed men of the Kuomintang (Cantonese). Several of the latter were reported killed. The fighting was accompanied by the outbreak of serious fires at three points in the native city.

Approximately 10,000 northern troops in the Shanghai area have gone over to the Cantonese.

NATIVES SEEK REFUGE

One hundred White Russians were admitted to the foreign settlement after being disarmed, while thousands of Chinese from the native city sought refuge inside the foreign barricades.

Bullets continued to fall inside the settlement endangering the lives of the foreigners. The Astor House hotel was struck.

Naval forces from the British cruisers "Hawkins" and "Carlisle" were landed at Footing across the Whangpoo river from Shanghai to protect British owned property.

The vanguard of the Cantonese army entered the native city Monday morning. The Shantungese fled at their approach, and the city was taken without fighting.

The municipal council declared a state of emergency and landing parties of all nationalities represented in the Shanghai naval concentration, including 1,500 American marines, disembarked to defend the foreign settlements against invasion.

Possibility of serious disorders was intensified by the calling of a general strike of Chinese workers to celebrate the fall of the city to Chang Kai Shek's southern forces.

The foreign defenders ashore here, Monday numbers 15,000 men, part of whom are holding the 20 mile exterior defense line, while others strongly patrol the streets of the foreign settlements.

U. S. MARINES ON GUARD

The 1,500 American marines are patrolling the northern and western districts where trouble is most likely to break out, owing to the general strike and the gathering of crowds of idlers.

The marines came ashore with full equipment including machine guns and metal helmets, ready to remain until the trouble is over. They landed laughing and joking, glad that their long inactivity cramped aboard ship was over.

The Japanese landing party also totaling 1,500 men, French, Italian, Dutch, Portuguese and Spanish likewise debarked strong detachments. The British already have numerous forces ashore.

All the barriers between the native and foreign districts were closely and heavily guarded. The foreign detachments were ordered to remain in their quarters and to be ready to move out at a moment's notice.

Police said Mrs. Snyder had told them she had known Gray for two and one-half years and that she wanted her husband out of the way in order that she might marry him.

PREFERS SENTENCE OF 10 DAYS TO $10 FINE

Ben Posniak, 629 W. Wisconsin-ave, either values his time at only $1 a day, or is practically destitute. Given the alternative Monday morning in municipal court of paying a fine of $10 and costs or spending 10 days in the county jail, he decided on the sentence. Judge Theodore Berg found him guilty of conducting a junk business without taking out the necessary license.

COUNT SALM MOVES TO END SUIT AGAINST WIFE

BROWNING IS WINNER IN SEPARATION SUIT AGAINST 'PEACHES'

TAX REDUCTION IS SEEN AS BIG ISSUE IN NEXT CONGRESS

Democratic House Leader Says Party Plan Would Have Saved Billion

Washington —(AP)—The question of tax reduction, one touching the pocketbooks of millions of Americans, last is looming as one of the outstanding subjects that will confront the new congress, the seventieth when it convenes early next December.

Viewed in the half light that a nearly nine months prospective casts, the question already shows ear marks of developing into a political issue that will have a distinct echo in the swiftly approaching 1928 presidential campaign.

The forecasts by Secretary Mellon of treasury surplus slightly in excess of $500,000,000 for the current fiscal year and the subsequent indication by President Coolidge that he believes this would justify a reduction in revenue rates unless some unforeseen contingency should arise, have been developing closely, observed by members of both houses and senate still remaining at the capitol.

Already the Democrats, through their spokesman, Representative Oldfield, Arkansas, chairman of the minority congressional campaign committee, have taken a thrust at the Republican position on tax reduction. In a statement issued Sunday, he estimated American consumers would pay $1,000,000,000 in living costs this year that would have been unnecessary if the Democratic tax revision plan had been adopted at the last session.

WIFE ADMITS LOVER KILLED HER HUSBAND

Art Editor Was Murdered to Clear Way for New Marriage, She Confesses

New York —(AP)—Mrs. Ruth Snyder Monday asserted in a statement to police that Henry Judd Gray, now under arrest in Syracuse, had murdered her husband, Albert Snyder, art editor of a magazine, in order that he might be free to marry her. Press dispatches from Syracuse said that Gray was in that city Sunday night.

According to the alleged confession, Mrs. Snyder said that Gray was concealed in their home in Queen's Village when she, her husband and their 9-year-old daughter, Lorraine, returned early Sunday morning from a card party.

Gray, according to the confession, beat Snyder to death and then wound a piece of picture wire around his throat. After the murder, Gray bound Mrs. Snyder in order to throw an alibi of burglary over the crime.

Police said Mrs. Snyder had told them she had known Gray for two and one-half years and that she wanted her husband out of the way in order that she might marry him.

INDIANA EDITOR TO BE HEARD IN CONTEMPT CASE

Troops Still Guard City Against Racial Warfare

Coffeyville, Kan. —(AP)—Coffeyville continued under military rule Monday at the request of civil authorities following reports of renewed agitation against Negroes, as a result of the racial outbreak Friday night in which four persons were injured.

Scheduled withdrawal of all national guard troops was postponed Sunday night when authorities were informed high school students planned to bar colored pupils from classes Monday because of the attack on two white girls by three Negroes Thursday.

Arrest of a Negro, who was carrying a pistol and a supply of ammunition Sunday night, caused guardsmen to start a search of all colored laborers in the Ozark smelter and other industrial plants.

Although authorities scouted rumors of plans for invasion of the Negro quarter, troops patrolled the section in automobiles and sentries guarded all roads from nearby towns.

The Negro found carrying the pistol was the only person arrested Sunday in connection with the outbreak.

Adjutant General McLean at Topeka, said he expected control of the city would be restored to civil authorities Monday or Tuesday.

A special assembly of high school students was called for Monday morning to permit Captain G. W. Noel to address pupils.

TWO NATIONS DENY WARNING TO JUGO-SLAVS

Britain and Italy Declare No Action Taken on Albanian Revolt Activity

Belgrade —(AP)—Neither the British nor Italian ministers have given Jugoslavians any warning regarding the danger of Jugo-Slav revolutionaries inciting revolt in Albania, says an official statement by Foreign Minister Perich. This denial is confirmed from a high diplomatic source. The report that such action had been taken was published in the Rome newspapers.

Geneva, Switzerland —(AP)—Tension in the Balkans Monday caused a stir in league of nations circles, as the league preparatory commission assembled to discuss preliminary plans for an international disarmament conference.

Advices from Rome the last few days have told of the mobilization of Jugo-Slav troops along the Albanian border, and Italian newspapers have gone into details alleging warlike intentions on the part of Jugo-Slavians.

BELGRADE DENIES ACTION

The Belgrade government and Jugo-Slav representatives in several European capitals have vehemently denied military preparations, except the usual defense against frontier incidents. The Jugo-Slav agency at Belgrade has referred to the reports as pure inventions, saying Jugo-Slavians are anxious for peace.

Although Rome newspapers said the Italian representatives in England, France, Germany and other large European countries had presented "communications" to the Italian government, the Italian foreign office has remained silent.

The Italian newspapers charge the Jugo-Slav government with a desire to stir up revolt in Albania, pointing out that such a revolt might be advantageous to Jugo-Slavians' interests. These papers said England has joined with Italy in protesting to the Jugo-Slav government against the alleged belligerent intentions of Belgrade as regards Albania.

GREEN BAY CHILD IS KILLED BY ICE TRUCK

Green Bay —(AP)—Eagerness to see "a chicken on a string" in the hands of a child across the street resulted in the death Saturday afternoon of little Mary Jane, 8-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Tiek, Green Bay. The child dashed across the street, and a number of other children had gotten out of the way of a large ice truck. The machine driven by William Haen, Green Bay, struck Mary Jane, knocked her down, and she was almost instantly killed. She died in her mother's arms. An inquest was called for 2 o'clock Monday afternoon.

ATTEMPT TO LOWER RAIL RATES UNFAIR—SARGENT

Green Bay —(AP)—"It's hardly fair for institutions making a profit of from 10 to 40 per cent to attempt to reduce the rates of the railroad making 4 per cent," President Fred W. Sargent of the Chicago and Northwestern railroad, declared at an employee's meeting here Saturday night.

Taxes and attempts at rate reduction were the principal targets of the speaker's attack. The Chicago and Northwestern road, with 11,000 miles of line, pays $200,000 more in taxes than all the railroads of Canada combined, totaling 38,000 miles, he declared, and it is the largest single taxpayer in the state of Wisconsin. "The low taxed Canadian roads are our competitors for trans-continental business," he said, "and we are taxed to provide highways for buses and waterways for water traffic. It isn't fair."

EARL CARROLL MUST SERVE PRISON TERM

Washington —(AP)—Earl Carroll, the theatrical manager must serve the sentence of a year and a day imposed upon him for perjury as an outgrowth of his famous bath tub party. The supreme court Monday refused him a review.

He may delay commitment by asking a rehearing, but such requests seldom are granted. The highest court refused to refund any ground for any action in the voluminous arguments of Carroll's lawyers.

Carroll was taken before the grand jury twice during investigation of the party at which it had been reported that a chorus girl, party immersed in liquor in a bath tub served drinks to the guests. After he had denied that the girl was in the tub, he was indicted and convicted of perjury. He claimed and was granted immunity, however, from prosecution under the national prohibition law.

CROWNHART UPHOLDS PAT MALONE SENTENCE

Madison —(AP)—Judge E. V. Werner, Oconto, who sentenced Pat Malone, Ku Klux Klan lecturer, to one year in jail for alleged slanderous remarks against Father Peter J. Grosnick, and whose decision was reversed by the supreme court because of technical errors is upheld in a dissenting opinion filed Monday by Justice C. H. Crownhart of the high bench.

The opinion says "this court in recent years, yielding to the urge of the legislature, has been getting away from the archaic common law rules of exalting legal technicalities above common sense and justice."

Flowers Poke Heads Thru Snow As 'Spring' Arrives

"Spring" was ushered in Monday morning in the midst of a driving snow storm which started with slight flurries Saturday evening, and golf bugs who had their clubs out carried them back to the lockers. After a week of almost perfect spring weather with the thermometer never below 40 degrees above zero, boys were able to renew the winter sport of throwing snowballs Monday, although spring officially arrived at 9:59 in the morning. Other persons found pleasure in shoveling their walks when three inches of flakes covered the ground by noon, with prospects of six inches by nightfall.

Slight flurries started Saturday evening and continued at intervals all day Sunday. The ground was covered by Sunday morning. The temperature dropped Saturday evening and Sunday, as low as 29 degrees. Monday it hovered around 32 degrees. A common sight in the city was flowers blooming, sticking their heads through a blanket of snow.

The forecast is warmer Tuesday in the south portion only, cloudy and somewhat unsettled Monday night and probably Tuesday.

Rivers In Midwest Rise After Heavy Snow Storm

Chicago —(AP)—More rain or snow was in prospect Monday for the central west where many rivers and creeks already were running flood high as a rise of heavy weekend precipitation.

Indiana probably was the hardest hit by the high water, hundreds of acres of farm lands along the Wabash river and along both forks of the White river being inundated. The southern part of Terre Haute was under water from overflowing creeks, while the Ohio river at Evansville, had passed the flood stage of 35 feet. In some areas transportation was hampered by sleet.

Rising waters of the Moreau river farmers to seek shelter in a tree which had been surrounded by the river. They were rescued Sunday night after a wait of several hours.

REBELS IN MEXICO IN ATTACK ON TRAIN

Attempt to Dynamite Passenger Fails—Occupants Not Molested

Mexico City —(AP)—Passengers on a railway train, bound from Laredo for Mexico City, had some anxious moments Sunday night when 300 rebels, commanded by Rodolfo Gallegos, attacked it, shooting promiscuously. By throwing themselves on the floor of cars, passengers escaped bullets. No one was molested, as an individual, and the rebels took nothing from passengers. Two Pullmans and a first class coach were burned.

There is said to have been a plan to blow up the entire train, but the charge did not explode. The conductor was wounded and died later.

A number of Americans were traveling in Pullman cars, among them Mrs. C. B. Harman and her two children. She is said to have voluntarily offered money to the rebels.

Ten soldiers making up the military escort aboard the train fought valiantly until overwhelmed. The bandits loaded money with loot from the express and mail cars and escaped.

Federal forces are pursuing both bands of marauders under instructions to show no mercy.

BUS STRIKES ABUTMENT; TWO KILLED; EIGHT HURT

Chicago —(AP)—Two persons were killed and eight injured when a Yellow Cab bus, enroute to St. Louis, crashed headlong into a concrete abutment five miles south of Joliet, Ill., Sunday night.

Mrs. Emma Reed and Michael Lisa, both of St. Louis were killed. The injured were removed to St. Joseph's hospital, Joliet. The party was returning from a basketball game at the Great Lakes Naval Training station.

CITY CREWS GET OUT SHOVELS TO FIGHT STORM

Although no extra men were given work by the street department Monday morning, the regular crew was at work clearing sidewalks and crosswalks, according to R. F. Hackworth, street commissioner. The snow was not deep enough to seriously interfere with traffic and the snow loader will not be pressed into service unless the storm continues.

RULING FELT IN APPLETON

Supreme Tribunal Rules Against City and State in Hartford Case

BIG SUM INVOLVED HERE

Expect Banks Will Be Able to Recover Money Paid to City Under Protest

Washington —(AP)—The states of Wisconsin and Minnesota were defeated in the Supreme court Monday in two important cases involving their methods of taxing stockholders in National banks.

Wisconsin's tax on shareholders was upset in a case, brought by the First National Bank of Hartford, Wis. The court decided against the state in the fight over the tax imposed by the city of Hartford on stock held by stockholders.

Justice Stone, in delivering the opinion in the Hartford case held that the large amounts of capital were shown to be invested in businesses carried on throughout the state "which are of the same character, as some, though not all of the business carried on by national banks."

CHANGE COMPETITION

In two fields at last, those of loans and sales of credits, the opinion said, "capital thus employed is known to be in substantial competition with that of national banks."

The court held there was sufficient evidence that private individuals as investors of surplus funds "are engaged in loaning money at interest on real estate mortgages and other evidences of indebtedness such as normally enter into the business of banking and that these investments are of substantial amount."

"We do not conceive," it continued, "that in order to establish the fact of competition it is necessary to show that national banks and competing investors, solicit the same customers for the same loans or investments."

The city of Appleton may have to return from $150,000 to $200,000 to Appleton banks as a result of this ruling by the Supreme court. National banks have paid taxes on bank stock under protest since 1921, and state banks have protested for at least three years. At least four suits have been started by the banks to recover taxes paid under protest.

A year or two ago several Appleton bankers offered to arrange a compromise with the city whereby they would pay half of the taxes they alleged to be illegal if the city would

SINCLAIR ASKS FOR NEW TRIAL IN CONTEMPT CASE

Washington —(AP)—Harry F. Sinclair, millionaire oil operator, Monday formally asked for a new trial on the charges of contempt of the senate for which he was convicted by a district of Columbia Supreme court jury.

The motion for a new trial was filed by George F. Hoover and Martin Littleton, counsel for the oil man, and Justice Hitz set March 25 for argument.

Twenty alleged errors in the conviction of Sinclair on the charge of having refused to answer questions while a witness before the senate oil committee were cited in the motion. Chief among them was the denial of an instructed verdict which was declared to be "contrary to law."

STROKE IN COURT IS FATAL TO ATTORNEY

ELECTRIC TRUST NIPS MOVES FOR PUBLIC OWNERSHIP

Organization Has Larger Spread Than Any Which Ever Existed

BY GEORGE W. NORRIS
U. S. Senator From Nebraska
Washington—There is no doubt that the electric trust, which is the same as the power trust, has a larger spread than any other trust which has ever existed.

It is in every state, and in almost every community, and its influence is exceedingly powerful. We have felt its power in the Sixty-third Congress during which it spent millions of dollars on propaganda for which the people of this country will pay in their electric bills.

The power trust has most of the power in this country and it is determined to keep municipal operation from ever being experimented with because such an experiment would give the people a lesson in what cheap electricity can do in the hands of the American people and thus bring public sentiment against the power trust.

ONTARIO'S EXAMPLE
The people do not realize, first what wonderful conveniences electricity can bring into the home, and second how cheaply it can be had. Nearly every stream has wonderful possibilities for power.

If the American people had paid
the same price for electricity last year that the people just across the Canadian line in Ontario paid, they would have saved $500,000,000.

More than 50 per cent of the domestic users of electricity in Ontario where they have government and municipal ownership of electricity, get their electricity for less than two cents per kilowatt hour.

A COMPARISON
The average price of electricity during the last year in the United States was 7.5 cents per kilowatt hour and the average price in Ontario was 1.85 cents per kilowatt hour.
This means that it costs the American people $500,000,000 a year to keep the power trust. That $500,000-000 represents profit which goes into private pockets.

If we were to operate Muscle Shoals and Boulder Dam for power at a fair price, it would put a substantial crimp in that margin.

That is another reason why the power interests have bent every effort to beat our bills and resolutions which would give government operation a fair trial.

The power trust has representatives all over the United States and many of them are prominent in political life or are close to others who are.

CONGRESSIONAL CONTROL
When it was to control Congress, not only is it strongly represented by lobbyists here, but its representatives and friends from all over the country send in telegrams to congressmen and senators telling them what it wants. And the consumers pay very cent of the expense.

In the case of the Boulder Canyon bill, everybody knows that we had the votes to pass it if we could have obtained a roll call. We were unable to get a two-thirds vote for a closure, but when the bankers of the country wanted a closure to pass a banking bill, they have no trouble whatever in getting it.

In the face of the deluge of influential propaganda which the power interests are able to unleash upon Congress, the people stand helpless.

SNOWSTORM DOESN'T BOTHER NAVIGATORS

Boats Leave Docks to Begin Hauling Coal for Valley Mills

Despite the snow storm Sunday and Monday, navigation on the lower Fox river from Menasha to Green Bay was officially opened at 6 o'clock Monday morning. "The river is free of ice, the channels are clear and the snow storm is no serious hindrance to traffic," said E. F. Everett, United States engineer in charge of the river.

WIRE WEAVERS ASK COUNCIL TO BUILD CITY GOLF COURSE

Appleton wire weavers, at their quarterly meeting Friday evening in Trades and Labor council hall, went on record for a municipal golf course in Appleton by adopting a resolution asking the city council and park commission to construct a course in South park.
About 55 individual members of the union signed a petition which will be presented to the council.

Following is the resolution:
"We the Wire Weavers of Appleton, are interested in and are desirous of having a municipal golf course in Appleton, and hereby petition the city council and the park commission to construct such a golf course in South park, Fourth ward."

ASSEMBLY ADOPTS SCHMIEGE'S BILL

Measure Is Termed One of Most Important Pieces of Legislation This session

The Declaratory Judgment bill, introduced in the state assembly by Assemblyman Oscar J. Schmiede, Appleton, was adopted by that body Wednesday almost unanimously.
The proposed law would permit a person under contract to determine his rights without breaking his obligation as construed by the other party by allowing its construction to be determined by the courts before its breach. Assemblyman Schmiede said:
"The decision of the court would be binding on both parties. Under the present law a man can only guess whether he is breaking a contract or entering into an illegal one. If he guesses wrong, he goes to jail."

The proposed law is termed by bar leaders as one of the most outstanding pieces of legislation of the present legislature, it is said.

Dean Harry S. Richards of the university law school, recently appeared at a committee hearing, appeared in favor of Assemblyman Schmiede's bill providing for declarations of opinion on contracts by courts.

"It should be possible in a civilized country for a man to find out his rights under a contract without breaking his obligation as it is construed by the other party, and changing what the courts will decide," said Dean Richards.

"You're right," agreed Chairman Alvin C. Reis. "Under the present system a man can only guess at whether or not he is breaking a contract or entering into an illegal one.
If he guesses wrong, he goes to jail."

DRUNK MAKES MISTAKE OF PASSING POLICEMAN

D. C. Wilson, 321 E. Washington-st., made the serious mistake of passing the police station about 4:30 Saturday afternoon while under the influence of liquor. That he regretted this indiscretion goes without saying, and the probabilities are he will be more careful in the future about how and when he walks by police headquarters.

Officer Carl Radtke, standing near the window, saw Wilson as the latter went by in rather uncertain steps. He accosted the pedestrian, and escorted him back to the station to spend the rest of the weekend there.

When arraigned in municipal court for drunkenness, Wilson pleaded guilty and was fined $10 and costs, totaling $13.20. He paid.

Stop Little Colds before they become big

Pneumonia

A GREAT many cases of this dread disease develop from neglected colds. That's why medical science says: "To avoid a big cold, stop a little one."

For checking all colds promptly, the following approved treatment has been found effective in millions of cases: (1) A day's rest.
(2) A laxative. (3) A light diet. (4)
Vicks rubbed on throat and chest.

Vicks medicated vapors, released by the body heat, are inhaled direct to the air passages; at the same time Vicks acts like a poultice, drawing out the soreness and pain. Use this treatment at the first sign of every little cold and big colds will be almost unknown to you.

THEFT OF CAR IN CITY IS REPORTED

Three Other Automobiles Are Stolen Late in Various Parts of State

Theft of one automobile in Appleton and three in various parts of the state were reported to local police over the weekend.

Nick Echer, Appleton, reported to police early Monday morning that his Ford sedan which he had parked in an alley just off College-ave, was stolen. The license number is 101070, 1926 issue, and the motor number is 3005872. The car was finished in black.

A Studebaker sedan, license number D-3729, 1927 issue, was stolen Sunday at Manitowish, police of that city reported. The car is a 1926 model, and was equipped with front and rear bumpers, Kelly-Springfield tires, and a nickel plated radiator.

A 1927 Buick coach was stolen last Friday March 18, at Milwaukee. Its equipment included five Goodyear tires and bumpers in the rear and front. The body was finished in green, the fenders were black, and the wheels were of natural wood. A license permit sticker was on the windshield, and stains were noticeable on the right front seat. There was an umbrella in the car when it was stolen.
The license number is D-54255
Wisconsin, and the motor number 177236.

Theft of a Dodge coupe, 1926 model, at Watertown on March 15, also was reported. The motor number is A-489402, and the serial number is A-418497.

WARM WEATHER FOLLOWED BY SNOW HARD ON TULIPS

Between 3,000 and 4,000 tulips set outside to retard their growth at the Riverside greenhouse were threatened with destruction by frost late last Friday night, according to J. H. Boel-ter, manager of the greenhouse. A number of men were roused from bed shortly after midnight Friday, and they succeeded in getting the plants covered before they were damaged and on Saturday the flowers were moved into the greenhouse.

The flowers had been set in pots and boxes and they were blossoming prematurely on account of the warm weather, according to Mr. Boelter.
The flowers were intended for the Easter trade and had they been allowed to remain inside the house they would have been ready too early and been an entire loss.

POLICE SERGEANT BACK ON JOB AFTER ILLNESS

Sergt. John Duval of the police department reported for duty again Monday morning after a forced layoff of two weeks. He was confined to his home with an attack of pleurisy.

Boys played marbles even in the days of the early mound builders.

ICE ON WINNEBAGO IS STARTING TO BREAK UP

The ice on Lake Winnebago started breaking Wednesday night, according to a cottage caretaker at Waverly beach, and several days of warm weather will open the lake all way across. Due to low water, the ice for several hundred feet from the shore has not yet started to go out because it cannot get past the sand bars. Several Appleton people who spend their summers at cottages along the lake shore are preparing their property to move in. If the present warm weather continues, some Appleton people expect to move to the lake within the next two weeks.

RAINY DAYS WERE HAPPY DAYS HERE IN SMART EIGHTIES

Only when it rained could men and women students of Lawrence college walk across the campus together forty years ago.
A student historian has uncovered an ancient rule forbidding youths and coeds to mingle in groups or twosomes on the college lawns except on inclement days. The rainy-day privilege was granted because the faculty deemed it the part of chivalry for young men to offer their protection to coeds during showers.
The nineteenth century college boy always carried his umbrella to class and hoped for the worst.
Not until the late 90's was the rule revoked.
Now, however, the school boasts of a heavy social calendar and a student body of nearly fifteen hundred.

ester will take place at the business meeting. Nominations were made at last week's meeting. Nominates for win Boettcher.

fall also will be discussed.

SPEEDER ADMITS GUILT, FINED $10 AND COSTS

tonville, was fined $10 and costs of $3.20 Monday morning in municipal court for speeding. He was arrested Monday morning by Officer F. F.
Arndt, charged with traveling 30 miles an hour on W. College-ave.

Rheumatism Recipe

Ex-Sergeant Paul Case, Room 113
Grace Building, Brockton, Mass., states that while serving with the American Army in France he was given a prescription for Rheumatism and Neuritis that has produced most gratifying results in thousands of cases. He says the prescription cost him nothing, so he asks nothing for it, but will send it free to any one who writes him.

Do you run a washer or does the washer run you?

Convenience and Speed Beyond Belief in
The "1900"

WHIRLPOOL

IN the early days of the automobile industry it was customary to assure prospective buyers that the car would run. Today it is no longer necessary to assure the modern woman that a washer will wash clothes.
There are dozens of good washing machines from that standpoint.

But there is no other washer like the WHIRLPOOL. Its convenience founded on its simplicity makes nil of washday labor. One control starts and stops washer and wringer.
Clothes are added or removed while your washing is going on. Water may be added or drained without stopping the washing action. There is nothing to lift out; nothing to adjust, practically nothing to lubricate, and nothing to learn about operating a Whirlpool.

ALL these factors contribute to the Whirlpool's washing speed, the like of which has hitherto not been known.
It will do the washing of an average family of four in one hour a week. Test after test has proven the WHIRLPOOL.

And there are other advantages such as an 18-ounce tempered copper tub, exclusive with this washer, Tim-ken and babbitt bearings, case hardened working parts ground to a precision of a thousandth fraction of an inch, and a direct drive, eliminating slipping or breaking belts.

The Whirlpool is built just like a fine motor car for speed, convenience and endurance. It is the thoroughbred among washers with an ancestry of years of successful washing machines.

ASSEMBLY ADOPTS SCHMIEGE'S BILL ON KIDNAPPING

Child Stealers May Escape With Fifteen to Thirty Year Sentences

Madison—(P)—In a turbulent week-end session, the assembly Friday moved toward an ambitious schedule for coming weeks. Ordering the usual number of bills, engrossed, or ready for final action, the low house found four new bills, introduced by committee.

Unanimous concurrence was voted for the appropriation bill originated in the upper house by Senator Southwick for completion of the north cell block of the state penitentiary. Seven assembly bills were passed. These were:

Sellers' bill increasing fees allowed sheriffs and their deputies while attending court.

Staub's bill, making use of optometrists' instruments constituting the practice of optometry and requiring a license.

Schmiege's bill cutting the sentence permissible for kidnapping from life imprisonment to from fifteen to thirty years in cases where no injury is inflicted upon the kidnapped.

Kemper's bill allowing optional distribution of proceeds of cooperative associations to stockholders.

Three bills by the committee on fish and game, changing the dates upon which deer may be shipped, prohibiting the sale of pike from inland waters and repealing a minor section relating to the closed season for fish.

The full committee bills introduced were:

By the finance committee, creating a revolving fund of $5,000 for establishment of "conveniences and recreational facilities, in state parks, fees derived from operation of these improvements to be returned to the conservation commission.

By the agriculture committee, allowing the department of markets to collect a "reasonable" fee for adjustment of cooperative marketing groups' troubles and providing for "forfeiture" of $200 instead of fines up to $500 with imprisonment for violation of its orders.

The education committee bill, placing Washington's birthday on the same basis as Lincoln's in the school holidays and setting 20 days as the number in each month for which teachers are to be paid. These holidays would be counted as school days.

By the agriculture committee, allowing counties to acquire lands and settling the amounts that may be expended therefore according to population of the counties.

Another bill will be added to later calendars by the reconsideration method. It relates to the employment of county supervisors by county highway committees. Assemblyman Hall brought it back by motion to reconsider the vote by which it was indefinitely postponed.

Temporary White House Too Ritzy For Cameras

BY RODNEY BUTCHER

Washington—President Coolidge is not at all bashful, personally, about posing for photographs.

In fact, it is generally suspected that he is rather fond of it. But you may recall that you have yet to see a picture of the interior of the president's new temporary home, the Patterson mansion on Dupont Circle.

It is very likely that you won't. And it's the president's fault. As soon as it was announced that Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge would reside in the home of the former Countess Giza, now Mrs. Elmer Schlesinger, a great many bright young men engaged in the business of taking photographs bent every effort to obtain photographs inside the temporary White House.

Mrs. Schlesinger herself had no objection, it appeared. She was rather proud of the old home, in fact. But Mrs. Schlesinger was powerless. Orders had come from the White House that it was not desired to have such pictures appear in the newspapers.

No reason was given for this reluctance, officially. The president of the United States seldom has to give explanations for anything of such a nature.

As the time approached for the president to desert the White House pending repairs, and to move into the Dupont Circle place, efforts were redoubled to obtain the interior views. These efforts likewise came to naught. The camera boys could stand outside and shoot as much as they desired but they couldn't step inside.

The only suggestion of an explanation, which comes from persons who have been inside the house, is that the president feels the interior would hardly square with the Coolidge tradition of Vermont simplicity. Any one who has ever been inside the old Coolidge homestead in Plymouth, Vt., with its huge, lengthy stovepipe busting the sitting room, will get the point.

A desire has been manifested from the direction of the White House to stress the innate simplicity of the Dupont Circle place. But, under the circumstances, that is a rather difficult task. The mansion is vastly more ritzy than any private residence your correspondent has ever seen in the state of Vermont.

It is hardly likely that publication of interior views of this little palace would have any effect on the popular conception of President Coolidge, and the chances are that the president's objections are due to a feeling of modesty. If it were his own, personal dwelling, it might be different.

Photographers are popular with the president and the president is popular with the photographers. In the first place, he is nearly always glad to oblige and in the second place he seems to know so much about the technique of photography that the boys say he himself would make an excellent photographer. He knows just how to stand to get the best benefit of the light and always helps pull groups together when it's that kind of a picture.

Mr. Coolidge always moves promptly one way or the other, on demand, and he makes sure that all the photographers in sight get a good position on the firing line. Whenever one comes running up late, he is ready to wait for a minute until another picture can be taken.

Photographers are allowed to function in the House of Representatives at the opening and close of a congressional session and when the president comes to make an address, but never in the Senate.

Speaker Longworth, strangely enough—it seemed at the time—ordered all the camera men out of the House chamber by noon when the Sixty-ninth Congress expired. There was to be a celebration, consisting of hand music, singing and other high jinks. The supposition was that Longworth feared the scenes would be too undignified for publication.

At any rate, it was rather novel to find the speaker addressing the photographers in the gallery from his chair while the House was still in session and having attendants chase them out when they tried to secrete themselves in the crowd.

SCHOOL LAW KEEPS YOUTH FROM WORK, SAYS BILL AUTHOR

Milwaukee Assemblyman Doesn't Intend to Abolish Vocational School

Madison—(P)—The present vocational school law, compelling 16 to 18 year old children to absent themselves from their employment one day each week to attend vocational schools, "is preventing children who find it necessary to work to earn their living from obtaining steady and profitable employment," Assemblyman L. S. Potewyanski, Milwaukee, said in a statement Wednesday on his bill to eliminate the compulsory attendance beyond the age of 16.

The bill, he said, "does not aim to abolish the vocational or continuation school."

Compulsory education beyond the age of 16, is "cluttering up our splendid institutions of advanced education with unqualified and unwilling children who, if left alone, would do better in the school of experience, and it is actually overtaxing our educational facilities to such an extent that it is impossible for such institutions to thoroughly train and properly care for the vast number of naturally qualified and willing children who desire and deserve to be so trained and cared for," his statement said. It continued:

"This is conclusive proof that compulsory education beyond the age of 16, is under present economic and industrial conditions, premature, untimely and impractical, and should therefore be postponed until the working class receives sufficient compensation for its services to enable it to educate its 16 to 18 year old children of its own volition and without any burden or law enforcement."

"I have a high regard for our country judges, who were among the first to recommend a modification of our vocational school law, and believe that we should at the present time exert every effort to attain the highest possible efficiency of use of the money appropriated for the purpose of perfecting our graded school educational system—especially in cities which, on the one hand boast of expensive vocational and continuation schools but on the other hand find it necessary to tolerate cheap, out-of-date wooden fire-trap graded school barracks. The use of which is jeopardizing the lives of our school children."

THE VALUE OF HEALTH

Health is one of these things, the possessor of which does not appreciate it until he no longer has it. It is the one essential in life that most of us calmly ignore. We never think of our physical selves until some part goes wrong and we awake to find that we are ill and that our general health is, perhaps, permanently impaired.

A physician recently addressed a Rotary Club in New Jersey and he enunciated, instead of rules on "how to get well," rules on "how to get sick." He said, "Eat plenty of starches, get a corporation and look prosperous. Treat your body like your car and you will soon learn what its trade-in value is. Wear a tight hat, collect dandruff and you will become bald. Get cheap eyeglasses and you won't have to read; you won't be able to. Drink plenty of coffee and if it gives you 'nerves,' drink more and you won't have any. Don't drink water, avoid vegetables and never sleep eight hours."

No one would consciously follow these rules, for we all realize that such action would be to invite disaster. Yet, every day, we subconsciously follow those rules by failing to follow their opposites.

There are other rules he might have added on "how to get sick," such as "don't walk when you can ride, always work at top speed, never take a vacation, always work facing a bright light, never refuse a drink, even if it is wood alcohol," and so on. A thousand ways to get sick will suggest themselves if you give the subject some thought.

And thought is what the subject needs. Good health is so essential to success in business and to the pleasure one gets out of life that it deserves much more than the cursory attention it is in the habit of getting. It is easier to keep well than it is to get well.

TRAFFIC CONGESTION

Thomas Adams, well known city planning expert, who is head of the regional plan for New York and its environs, believes that in ten years unless more comprehensive and intelligent plans of city development are worked out and followed traffic congestion will deprive American cities of most of the benefits of modern transportation.

But why say ten years? Surely, in most large cities today it will be found that an automobile as a time saver is hopelessly outclassed by subway and elevated lines on the longer trips and that even on the shorter trips the value of the automobile is a matter of argument because of the difficulty of finding parking space. It is frequently necessary to go blocks beyond a destination in order to find a space to leave an automobile.

It is not alone the private pleasure car that is proving inefficient, but trucks and passenger busses also. Every car that uses the street causes congestion and when in a busy city thousands of cars are wanting to get everywhere at once the confusion resulting is inevitable.

There is a fairly definite limit to the number of cars that a street will accommodate, but there is practically no limit to the extent to which a city may concentrate business and residential population, whether transient or permanent. Thus, the more concentrated a business district is the more confusing results and the streets find themselves unable to care for the traffic incident to the district.

The remedy may not be so much in double-decked streets, elevated cross walks and other similar ideas as many people believe, but it may lie in spreading cities out and more evenly balancing the traffic in each portion with an eye to the needs of the future. Why not develop cities to spread out instead of up?

THE U. S. BIRTH RATE

One finds the observations of Professor Warren S. Thompson, noted sociologist, regarding the birth rate in the United States of more than passing interest. He has analyzed them with great care and his reputation leads one to suspect that he has checked his facts carefully. He denies, for example, that the "old American stock" is dying out. In Southern communities, he points out, the birth rate is markedly high. He admits that the birth rate in America since the Civil war has been cut in two, due to the prevalence of birth control and the movement toward "industrialization and urbanization." But he does not see in this situation any cause for alarm. On the contrary, he says, "American mothers undoubtedly give birth to more children than French, Italian or German mothers," and he follows that by declaring that despite the decreasing birth rate in the United States, statistics prove that the birth rate here is higher than that of any European country.

All of this is rather astonishing information. We have been accustomed to believing that the real American stock was being submerged by large numbers of foreign born progeny. But Professor Thompson denies this and says further that although the first generation of foreigners in this country, notably the Italians and Poles, breed large families, the second generation is often childless. In fact Professor Thompson, who is sociological instructor at Miami University, Oxford, Ohio, maintains that the Anglo-Saxon will be the preeminent race of the future because of its fecundity, since his investigations have proved to him the Anglo-Saxon stock in America is more prolific than the Latin or Slavic elements. We may therefore take heart. America apparently will not "change its spots." The influx of foreign born will not swamp our native population. If we are swamped we will swamp ourselves.

REDUCING BANK FAILURES

Fred I. Kent, vice president of the Bankers Trust company, has devised a plan which he thinks will reduce such bank failures as have been taking place in certain of the agricultural sections of the country in recent years and he has submitted the plan to the American Bankers association, of which he is chairman. The plan is simplicity itself.

Briefly, it is a more thorough system of examinations, coupled with an application of clearing house methods in the country districts. It is a fact that more of the failures have been due to unsound banking practices than to conditions beyond the control of the bankers. Thus, Mr. Kent contends, the obvious thing to do is to band all these bankers into groups or associations to apply mutually protective principles to their work.

There is no doubt that a complete method of cooperation embodying very frequent and thorough examination would work toward a greater degree of safety, for weakness in a member bank could be detected far enough in advance to prevent disaster and the association could require a proper capitalization based on deposits, would place a community in a position to differentiate between safe and unsafe or doubtful institutions by taking into membership only those which are sound and would reduce the organization of new banks where they would jeopardize the interests, not only of existing banks, but of merchants and farmers.

Another good result of such a plan would be the prevention of cut-throat competition that has a tendency to jeopardize banks at the expense of the community.

OLD MASTERS

Howed by the weight of centuries he leans upon his hoe and gazes on the ground, The emptiness of ages on his face, And on his back the burden of the world, Who made him dead to rapture and despair, A thing that grieves not and never hopes, Stolid and stunned, a brother to the ox?

Who loosened and let down this brutal law? Whose breath blew out the light within this brow? Whose breath blew out the light within this brow?

Is this the Thing the Lord God made and gave To have dominion over sea and land; To trace the stars and search the heavens for power?

To feel the passion of Eternity? Is this the Dream life dreamed who shaped the suns And marked their ways upon the ancient deep? Down all the stretch of Hell to its last gift?

There is no shape more terrible than this— More tongue with curse of the world's blind greed— More filled with signs and portents for the soul— More fraught with menace to the universe.

—Edwin Markham: From "The Man With the Hoe."

PRACTICAL POINTS IN DIABETES ECONOMY

The other day we referred to the method devised by Dr. Don Hastings Duffie, country physician, for the economical control of diabetes. By means of an ingenious system of cards the amounts of the three food elements, protein, fat, and carbohydrate, in a weighed quantity of the food are graphically represented, and the approximate number of grams of the element given in figures.

With a "hand" of these cards the patient, assisted by so many grams of P, F and C, can easily select his own diet, and what is more to the point, he can do this even if he doesn't know anything about figures. He simply gathers cards until he has a total which brings the length of the dash or black line for protein, fat and carbohydrate up to the limit the doctor has prescribed. How simple this is to do is indicated by the fact that the doctor's little son, not yet old enough to go to school, can quickly select a diet containing any given quantity of P, F and C by means of the cards.

It is easy for friend patient to approximate his assigned totals and keep his diet within his individual capacity to utilize or metabolize. This is the secret of the successful management of diabetes. Dr. Duffie's method allows the patient how to live with diabetes, but the method does not stop here. In order to make the selection of the diet almost a mechanical or automatic process, he uses a little calculator which determines totals of the three essential food elements very much as a carpenter trues up his work with square or spirit level.

The conventional Benedict test uses 5 c. c. or about 1½ teaspoonsful of the rather expensive Benedict's solution. Dr. Duffie finds it just as satisfactory and distinctly economical to use little 1/16 inch test tubes, whereon a file mark of 5 c. c. indicates the amount of Benedict's solution for one drop of urine.

Numerous other sound economies in the control of this expensive disease have been devised by this resourceful physician. It is often essential to determine the patient's carbohydrate tolerance (that is, find out how much of this food element he can utilize) and this is done by tedious and costly laboratory methods. Dr. Duffie finds that good work can be done, using no tests other than Benedict's for sugar and ferric chloride for acidosis. By means of these simple tests he arrives at a fairly accurate idea of the patient's sugar tolerance in terms of diet and insulin.

This diabetes test is rather beyond the ability of the patient to attempt on his own, but it is simple enough for any physician to employ. In the management of diabetes it is important to make sure, from time to time, that the patient is not drifting into a state of acidosis. Nowadays it is the best practice to resort to insulin or increased insulin at the first indication of acidosis, together with an increased allowance of carbohydrate, for while, enough to keep sugar in the urine, is not even accredited to anybody—just a sensational story. No medical authority imagines that the tuberculosis of birds is transmissible to man.

—Sir James Mackenzie, the famous heart specialist, laid the foundations for his fame in an English country practice.

In a quiet way many of our own country doctors are meeting and mastering the problems of medicine.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Replied by Lurid Yarns

In view of the assurance you recently gave that there is no danger of human being getting tuberculosis from the eating of eggs from tubercular fowls, the article I am sending you should interest you. Were you not a little inaccurate in your opinion about that? (L. F.)

Answer—No, I was accurate and right about it. There is no danger of contracting tuberculosis from fowls. The yarn from the yellow journal is not even accredited to anybody—just a sensational story. No medical authority imagines that the tuberculosis of birds is transmissible to man.

Bursitis Is No Fun
I have just recovered from a severe attack of "bursitis" in my right shoulder. I had five days of intense pain. I was unable to move my arm. If it is, I think I'll have the shoulder amputated or something. (Miss S. P. F.)

Answer—Not particularly. If it should, and you can find a physician who has dithyramic apparatus, that will give the greatest relief.

Dancing
Is it dangerous for me to jump up and down on my toes during periods? I am a dancer and have never experienced any trouble, but some women in this profession think it is dangerous for one to dance during the periods. (G. M.)

Answer—It is not. It is usually better not to interrupt your regular activities, work or play, that is, provided you are normal. Sick women should be guided by the advice of the physician.

Major Pomeroy sent his resignation to the adjutant general on the day after he returned from the Mexican border but was not accepted immediately. Lieutenant William N. Moore of the hospital corps of the Second Regiment had also tendered his resignation but it had not yet been accepted.

DECORATIONS FOR AMERICANS

Washington, D. C. — In a safe at the Department of State are packed away hundreds of decorations and diplomas conferred upon American citizens by foreign potentates. Some of them carry titles with them and many people would be surprised to learn that they have neighbors who are knights of something or other.

As is well known, under the Constitution of the United States, no person employed by the Federal Government in any capacity may accept an official gift from a foreign nation. This fact, however, does not deter other governments from displaying their appreciation of some service rendered or courtesy shown their citizens. These gifts may be accepted, but must be turned over to the Department of State which acts as custodian until such time as the donee may leave the service. When a man resigns from the Federal service he may file a formal application for the decoration or gift and the Department is holding for him and it will be delivered to him. In the event of his death, his estate may file application and it will be turned over to the executors.

Congress may by special act authorize recipients of these foreign honors to accept them and this was done during the World War with regard to the various foreign war decorations. Also before the United States entered the war the American Embassy in Berlin took over the interests of British subjects in Germany. In recognition of such service, the British government presented each member of the American Embassy with a piece of silver. By special act of Congress the officials were permitted to accept the silver and it was delivered to them.

There are many cases in which the recipient has never seen the decoration awarded him since it has been sent through diplomatic channels and not given him personally. Frequently men come into the State Department and ask to see their decorations and one young man not so long ago asked the clerk in charge, "Please can't you just take this home to show to my wife—she'll never believe I have been given anything like this."

If, however, the award is made personally the man is obliged to turn it over to the Department until he is separated from the government service—that is, unless he can induce Congress to pass a special act permitting him to have it delivered to him. This, however, is not being done upon rare occasions.

A SAFE FULL OF DECORATIONS

At the present time there are probably some 500 of these awards being held at the Department of State, and safe used to store them is fast reaching the overflowing stage, the rate of withdrawal being only about five or six each year. In fact there is a number of larger pieces which must be stored in another part of the building. It is fascinating to be shown these prizes, as they may be termed, since each is wrapped in a tied and marked with the name of the donee. The safe is filled with packages of all sizes and shapes, and some of the diplomas are in brilliant red and dark plum cases. It is nearly as good as opening a lot of Christmas packages to be permitted to open some of them. Some of the packages have been sealed by the owners before sending them to the Department so they may not be viewed. The majority, however, are merely wrapped and tied in the usual fashion.

While for the most part these packages contain decorations consisting of various insignias with appropriate sashes and ribbons as well as label buttons, there are a number of other things, which would probably be considered more useful by some. For instance, there is a diamond snuff box which was presented by the Shah of Persia and a scarf pin from the King of Siam. The keeper of the light-house at Cape Ann, Massachusetts, and the assistant keeper were presented with silver watches by the British government.

The government of Panama presented an eight-piece toilet set in 1912 and this was delivered to the donee in 1926. There are also silver bowls from China, gold watches from Ceylon, a gold cigarette case from Russia, and gold sleeve links from the King of Siam. The gold cigarette case, by the way, was delivered to Captain Hamlet of the Coast Guard by special permission of Congress.

A very interesting piece is a silver inkstand, bearing the British coat-of-arms, which was presented to Hoffman Philip who is now American Minister to Persia. Mr. Philip has also received a beautiful piece of Sevres porcelain which was given by France. This is said to be the figure of a warrior and is so intricately packed that no effort was made to unpack it completely. Special little pieces of wood, presumably, have been made to fit in the hands and around the head so that by no chance might these be broken. Mr. Philip has also been awarded the Grand Star of Ethiopia cordon and title by the King of Abyssinia.

PERSHING THE MOST DECORATED

General Pershing has perhaps the greatest number of foreign decorations. They consist of the following: Decoration and diploma Order of the White Lion, Class I, President Czechoslovakian Republic; Note and Medal commemorating first centenary of the Battle of Ayacucho, President of Peru; Gold Sword, President of Venezuela; Decoration and Diploma Knight Commander's Cross of the Order of "Virtuti Militari," President of Poland; Order of Bust of Bolivar and two lapel buttons, book of photographs, President of Venezuela.

Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover is not so far behind General Pershing in number of foreign honors, his being as follows: Decoration and diploma Order of the White Lion, Class I, President Czechoslovakian Republic; Insignia Grand Cross of the Order of Republic, President of Austria; Diploma Grand Cross of Order of Republic, Austria.

For the most part these foreign decorations and gifts have been made to those in the various military services of the country and in the diplomatic and consular branches, these being thrown into more direct contact with the various governments of the world. Occasionally, however, some civil employee of one of the departments has been so honored. Only a short time ago three members of the National Park Service were so honored by the King of Sweden in appreciation of courtesies extended to the Crown Prince of Sweden on his recent visit to the United States. They were permitted to see their decorations and were even given small photographs of them.

They were particularly fortunate since they have at least pictures to prove their claim to such honors while there are many who themselves know nothing more than that they have been honored by some foreign government. Even upon retirement from service they are still upon the government payroll and therefore ineligible to receive their decorations. And resignation or death seems rather a high price to pay for something which can probably be used only on the most formal occasions!

SEMI-ANNUAL PAYMENT OF TAXES BEST

Editor Post-Crescent: Some of our Laws were made in the days when our fathers turned out at sunrise to swing the scythe until breakfast time, and raked up the hay with a hand rake collecting taxes once a year, and having Town and City Treasurers in their Laws.

There are States in the Union that have only County Treasurers. One of them is the state of South Dakota, and the taxes are paid twice a year. Did you not know that the city and county treasurers of Wisconsin have a very easy job? The city treasurer is rushed for about six or eight weeks; after that time what does he do to earn his salary? The same with our county treasurer.

The States that pay their taxes twice a year have only a County Treasurer. When taxes are due you can pay them to the county treasurer, or drop him a postal card, and asking him the amount of taxes, for which you can send your check.

There are thousands of dollars of taxes in the state of Wisconsin unpaid this year, for the reason that the owners of the property could not pay them. If they could have been paid twice a year, a large percentage of the unpaid taxes would have been paid. Is it not time that the taxpayers of Wisconsin aroused themselves and their Rip Van Winkle spouses, and have all unnecessary expenses reduced?

If taxes were collected twice a year by the County Treasurer, there would be no extra cost, as this method would eliminate both the city and town treasurers, and the people would receive the benefit.

Two Floors of Good Things to Wear

At Sea

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE
Death strikes GARRETT FOL-
SON while swimming at Ocean Town, N. J. It is thought at first he is a stroke victim, but investigation shows he has been stabbed to death beneath the water.

Folsom's bathing companions had been ROGER NEVILLE, MRS. HELEN BARNABY, and CARMELITA VALDON. It is established that Folsom, just before his death, had been standing next to NED BARRON, known as the copper king.

ANASTASIA FOLSOM, eccentric and masterful sister of the dead man, arrives and takes command.
At the inquest it is established that the death weapon was a pistol, an Oriental knife, and that it and its scabbard had been purchased on the boardwalk.

It is also established that one CROYDON HEARS is a fancier of curious knives. Anastasia engages TITUS RIGGS, an architect, to work on the case. DAN PELTON, the dead man's nephew, arrives,
and Anastasia, on a countering ROBIN SEARS, begins to question him.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XXXIII

Anastasia Folsom was not at all unkindly, but she was straightforward and direct of speech and her eyes flashed with a sort of veiled warning.

"Your father bought several daggers at that auction?"
"Two, madam," said Robin, quietly.
"What for?"
"As he stated at the inquest, to add to his collection."

"Yes, I heard him. Why did he go out late on a stormy night to buy daggers for his collection?"
"Because that was the night on which the auction was held. Mr.
Meeker also bought daggers at that sale."

"I know that. But Mr. Meeker was not acquainted with my brother. Your father was."

"I don't think he was, Miss Folsom, though I am not sure. But even so,
he had a perfect right to buy antique curios, if he chose."

"Oh, yes, a perfect right. That is,
if he bought them for antique curios.
But if he bought them for use as deadly weapons, his right is not so unquestionable."

Robin had had about all he could stand.

Naturally courteous, he hesitated to speak sternly to a woman; yet he felt the time had come.

Tite Riggs was watching him closely; so was Pelton.

Neville and the two women with him had taken chairs nearby and were curiously listening to this dialogue.

Anastasia Folsom was regarding Robin Sears with an eager gaze that held in it not so much of enmity as inquiry, almost as if she hoped for some plausible and satisfactory explanation.

But Robin was at the end of his rope. The words "deadly weapons" had so roused his ire that he felt a direct response was called for.

"Miss Folsom," he said, "my father did buy those daggers for his collection. But your insinuation is too definite to be ignored, and I think I must ask you to cross to the other side of the deck and say to him what you have said to me."

"I shall be very glad to do so," Anastasia said, rising at once. "Come with me, Dan. And you, too, Mr.
Riggs. No one else."

And led by Robin, white-faced and flushed-eyed, they crossed to where Croydon Sears sat reading a newspaper.

"Dad," Robin said, "will you put down your paper, please?"
"Surely," said Sears, rising as Miss Folsom drew near.

She spoke at once.
"I am here to ask you, Mr. Sears," she began, "about the daggers you bought at the auction last Thursday night."

"Yes, Miss Folsom; what about them?"

Croydon Sears was what is often called a gentleman of the old school.
He had a fine old-fashioned courtesy, and though not an old man, he showed a polite deference in conversation not generally seen in today's social intercourse.

"You bought two, that were among the finer specimens of the lot, I understand."

"You have been correctly informed, I did."

"Then you left the sale room, in company with Mr. Meeker?"

"Yes, I did."

"Then where did you go?"
"I walked a bit on the boardwalk."
"Up or down?"

"Oh, both ways. Just a stroll back and forth. Then home to my hotel."

"Not going into the sale room again?"

"No, Miss Folsom."

The quiet tone carried an impression of veracity and composure, but as Miss Folsom's eyes had seen a slight quiver of Sears' lip throbbing of a pulse in his cheek, and a nervous movement of his hands.

At any rate, his son saw these things and marveled, for he knew they meant his father was disturbed in some way, and he failed to connect it with Miss Folsom's catechizing.

"Mr. Sears," the insistent lady went on, "I have no reason to suspect you of any complicity in my brother's death. I have no motive to attribute to you, no evidence to point your way, and no clue that suggests you. But I am investigating every possible avenue of inquiry, and so, since you can have no object in refusing to answer,

I ask you where you were at the time
my brother met his death."

Croydon Sears looked at her calmly.

"My dear madam," he said, "I am truly sorry for you. I know how anxious you are to learn the slayer of your brother, and I am glad to be of any help I can. I do not resent your questions, for I know they are the desperate efforts of an anguished heart. As to my position in the ocean that morning, I can only say I was bathing in the midst of a crowd of people a long distance away from the spot where your brother met his death. As many near me can testify, I was standing near the next rope, fully fifty feet away from the rope at which Mr. Folsom was standing. It would therefore have been impossible for me to commit that crime, even if it had been one of my daggers which was used—and, as you know, it was not mine."

At that moment, Ned Barron, in search of his friend, Croydon Sears, came up to the group.

Seeing the earnest discussion in progress, he paused, uncertain whether to interrupt.

Then he gathered a few words that told him of Miss Folsom's attitude toward Sears, and catching sight of Robin's anxious face, he stepped forward.

"Can I help?" he said, pleasantly.
"Is this another inquest?"

"No, Ned," Sears said, soberly, "but you may as well corroborate my statement that I was fifty feet or more away down the beach from Mr. Folsom at the time he was stabbed with the dagger."

"Why—er—were you? Yes, so you were."

Clearly Ned Barron had no recollection of Sears' whereabouts at the moment in question, but he was quite evidently willing and anxious to assist

AFTER FORD'S MILLIONS

his friend, and ready to back up his word.
"You remember, then," Miss Folsom said quickly, "that Mr. Sears was some distance up the beach when my brother fell under the water?"

"Yes, yes—I remember perfectly."
"By the next rope, up the beach—

that is, north," went on the inexorable voice, and staring into her face, almost as if hypnotized, Barron repeated, "Yes, up the beach—north."

"No, Ned," Sears said, "I was down the beach, toward the south. I fear your observation was not at its best."

"I think your corroboration is worthless," Miss Folsom said, con-temptuously.

"And I think we are on the verge of a revelation," said Dan Pelton, taking up the gauntlet. "Mr. Sears, I am here to help my aunt in her endeavors to find the man who stabbed my uncle. Like her, I have no reason to suspect you of any hand in the crime.
But I am ready to say that, your answers to her questions just now have not been very satisfactory, and your friend's backing up, though nobly attempted, fell down badly."

"Let me in on this," said Tite Riggs, in his suave fashion. "I make no doubt, Mr. Sears, that you can prove an alibi, and do not let that phrase frighten you. Any innocent person can prove an alibi; it is the guilty man who makes up one that he can't prove.
Now, will you tell us who were near you, as you were in the ocean at a point, say, about fifty feet away from Mr. Folsom, to the south?"

"Why, yes, certainly. Let me see, if there was—it's strange, but I can't for the moment think of anyone I know.
You see, I know so few people down here, and my son had just left me to swim far out into the breakers with—
"Yes, with whom?"

"I should prefer to leave the lady's name out of it, but it was his fiancée."

"That's all right," said Miss Folsom, impatiently. "We're not concerned with Mr. Robin Sears or the girl he's engaged to. It's Mr. Croydon Sears who interests me, and I want someone who will verify his statement that he did not hear my brother when he died. Surely that is not too much to ask, when I am so deeply concerned in my quest for the truth?"

"No, Miss Folsom, that is not too much to ask," and Tite Riggs' lips slut tight together, a habit of his

COMPLETE BASKETBALL SCHEDULE BY MARCH 26

Plans for completing the postponed game schedule of the Y. M. C. A. Industrial League by Saturday evening, March 26, were made at a meeting of team managers Friday evening at the Y. M. C. A. Two games scheduled for Saturday evening, March 19, when the Citizens Bank and Coated Paper Co. teams and Kimberly-Clark and Riverside fives were to meet, were postponed until Tuesday evening. This was done so that the Citizens Bank-Kimberly-Clark game, postponed last week, could be played Saturday evening.

The championship game between the Kimberly-Clark and Fox River teams, scheduled for Tuesday, March 26, was pushed back to Saturday, March 26.
It was decided not to change the dates of any more postponed games this week, and no excuse will be accepted for not playing. Any team that cannot play on the dates agreed on by all managers at the meeting will be forced to forfeit.

When much perplexed. "But, of course,
Mr. Sears, you can satisfy the lady's request. There must have been someone about whom you knew. Or some one you can describe, even if you are unaware of his name."

"Oh, yes," cried Croydon Sears, at that. "I distinctly remember a man in a bright green bathing suit. Shirt and trousers both of bright green. It struck me as unusual, and so I noticed it."

- a flavor never improved even by countless new methods of baking beans since the first beans were baked in an outdoor oven called the "bean hole"

Baked beans has become the most popular of the distinctive national dishes peculiar to this country.

Despite the fact however that their popularity increases steadily from year to year, no new method of baking beans has improved upon the original way in the outdoor oven.

Flavors peculiar to the wood fire and the very forest itself have always been absent.

But the noted bean baker,
Van Camp, decided that it was not impossible to reproduce the "woods" flavor of beans baked in the north woods "bean hole."

Now he has announced his latest piece of creative work in bean baking—Bean

ISO=VIS Receives Enthusiastic Praise

Iso=Vis, the revolutionary new motor oil, developed by the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has become immediately and immensely popular.

From all over the Middle West come letters commending the Standard Oil Company (Indiana), telling of the remarkable performance of this new motor oil. The following letter is typical.

Auburn, Michigan, Dec. 21, 1926.

Standard Oil Co., Saginaw Division, Saginaw, Mich.

Gentlemen:

I take great pleasure in recommending Iso=Vis Motor Oil to any user of motor oils. I know it gives better starting lubrication and extended integration service.

As a resale product I find that it moves faster than any motor oil product I have ever sold.

I have placed my first repeat order of five barrels with your salesman Mr. Burt Trombly.

(Signed) Dalvin Lamar
Willis W. Rosckraus

Ford Agency

Iso=Vis has aroused enthusiasm because it solves the old dilution problem that has bothered motorists for years. The oil of the past lost two-thirds of its body, or viscosity before the car had gone 200 miles. Iso=Vis maintains constant viscosity.

Iso=Vis is of the right body to make starting easier. After a thousand miles it is still of the right body, lubricating efficiently and completely.

That is why Iso=Vis reduces repair bills—puts new pleasure and satisfaction in motoring—and creates enthusiastic customers! Try it today!

"THE ARDEN" WITH ITS SIMPLICITY AND OPEN FIREPLACES MAKES AN IDEAL HOME OF FRAME, BRICK OR STUCCO

SIMPLICITY yet convenience and an abundance of open fireplaces are what strike one upon first glance at the lay-out of this home. And on closer examination, it is found, that "The Arden," as it is known, has many other attractions. Such are they that this home, while not large, has proved one of the most popular of any size planned by its designers. Of frame, stucco or brick it can be built for about $11,000, complete, with hardwood floors, full basement and steam or hot water heat. With a site, it often sells for from $20,000 to $30,000.

FISH ARE VALUABLE SUBSTITUTES FOR MEAT DURING LENTEN SEASON

Seeking a change in menus for the daily dinner from the usual roast, chicken, steak or chops or are you among those to whom Lent means more days without meat? In either event, it will be interesting to know, according to the United States Fisheries, that there are more than 250 different varieties of food fishes which come from our American waters. In all sections of the country there is a good selection of fresh and salt water fish in the markets from which one may choose, not to mention the smoked, salted cured and canned varieties. Fish and seafood are meat the same as land animals; and have high food values. Analyses made by the United States government show that fish and seafood contain as much body building material as beefsteak. It is as readily digested as other meats, as nourishing, stimulating and far less fattening.

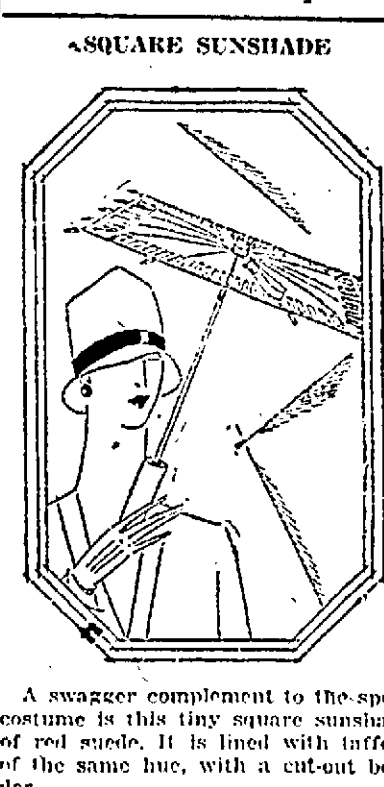

FILLET IS SOLID MEAT
Those who object to fish bones should buy fish which have been filleted. A fillet is a fish with the bones removed and is as solid as a piece of meat. This is a new method of preparing fresh fish. The fillets are wrapped in parchment or packages in such a fashion that the fish can be handled with a minimum of trouble by the housewife.
Fish are usually cleaned and dressed at the market and should not be left in water in the kitchen except for a quick washing in cold, salted water and wiped with a damp cloth. To remove any odor from the hands, simply wash them in strong salt water. Any objectionable odors from cooking fish are eliminated by pouring vinegar into the tins where the fish have been cooked and allowing it to simmer and come to a boiling point. This gives off an odor of maple sugar and drives away any other odors besides thoroughly cleansing

1 cup. Add sugar to syrup and bring to the boiling point. Stir in gelatin softened in cold water and remove from fire. When cool add juice of orange. Reserve about 4 tablespoons of this mixture, keeping it warm over hot water until needed. When remaining gelatin begins to thicken, beat with a Dover beater until frothy. Whip cream until firm, add vanilla and beat into gelatin froth. Pour into a shallow serving dish and dot with halves of peaches. Pour reserved syrup over each peach and put in a cold place to chill. Love Letters Of The Great

AS COMPILED BY DIANA RICE
WILLIAM CONGREVE 1670-1729
In comparing the talents of this eminent English dramatist with other early writers, one historian has said, "a limb of Moliere would have sufficed to make a Congreve, a limb of Congreve would have sufficed to make a Sheridan." It is to Ireland that William Congreve was produced, the education which apparently dulled some of the genius which was his at birth. Kilkeny and then Dublin were his homes before he went to London to read law. But the writer of brilliant epigrams turned early to the drama, and was only 23 when his first comedy "The Old Bachelor" was produced in London. Congreve had several love affairs. Mrs. Bracegirdle, the actress, and Arabella Hunt, a British singer, were both objects of this writer's deep devotion for many years. It was however, to Henrietta, Duchess of Marlborough, that Congreve left the bulk of his fortune when he died—a friend of the latter part of his life.

SAINT AND SINNER

By Anne Austin
On an impulse, born of unreasoning excitement, and aroused by the growing mystery of old Phil, the crippled beggar, Faith hurried to Stephen Churchill's office, and found the anteroom crowded with uneasy, impatient-looking people. She rightly guessed that they were to be called as witnesses for the defense in Cherry's trial, of whom she had never seen before in her life. Knew something which Stephen Churchill would try to get into the record to help clear Cherry of the charge of murder.
"I'm sorry, Miss Lane, but Mr. Churchill is frightfully busy," the lawyer's secretary told Faith crisply. "I'm afraid he can't see you at all today."
"I must see him," Faith urged. "I have information of vital importance." She could not look at the witnesses as she waited for the secretary to return from the lawyer's private office, but she was conscious that they were whispering about her.
"Mr. Churchill will see you for a minute, Miss Lane," the secretary announced.
Two other lawyers—less legal lights, who were assisting Churchill, rose when Faith entered the private office, but Churchill churlishly remained seated.
"My dear Miss Lane," he barked, behind the inevitable cloud of cigar smoke. "I've told you repeatedly that my hands are full and running over with a mass of detail work. I simply can't take the time to inform you of every step made in your sister's behalf."
Faith's mouth quivered as she answered, but she resolutely kept anger out of her voice. "I'm sorry to bother you, Mr. Churchill, but Mr. Hathaway

Mission Section Of C.E. Society Sponsors Program

A musical missionary program was held Sunday evening at Emmanuel Evangelical church under the auspices of the missionary committee of the Evangelical League of Christian Endeavor. The program was an observance of the annual missionary day of the society. It opened with two piano duets by the Misses Gladys Rahbehl and Rosetta Selig. A ladies quartet from the Womens Missionary society, composed of Mrs. John Trautmann, Mrs. George Breitrich, Mrs. Erwin Salberlich and Mrs. Nicholas Zylstra, sang several selections, followed by songs by a girls' quartet from the Young Peoples' Missionary circle. This quartet consisted of the Misses Lillian Breitrich, Lorraine Grimmer, Miriam Bernhardt and Dorothy Krueger. The C. E. girls quartet, composed of the Misses Rosetta Selig, Viola Ashman, Alice Koss and Elsie Krueger sang and the Polzin stringed orchestra played several pieces. Members of the orchestra, which recently broadcasted from Milwaukee, are Mr. Otto Polzin, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dehardt, Edward Petznick, Arthur Erdman, Ben Merkle, Clarence Merkle, George Koehler, and Marvin Wasserbach. Miss Gladys Rahbehl accompanied the quartets and orchestra at the piano.

Selections by a male quartet consisting of Edwin Salberlich, Arthur Erdman, George Breitrich and Raymond Krueger, completed the program. The Rev. H. A. Bernhardt gave a missionary talk. Miss Alice Koss was chairman of the committee in charge of the program.

JUST GOING TO CHURCH DOESN'T MAKE CHRISTIAN

Church and Sunday school attendance does not make a Christian, members of the High School Epworth league of the First Methodist church decided following a discussion of Christian Conduct Through the Week at their meeting Sunday evening at the church. Sunday attendance at these services are necessary because they serve as a school, as part of the training to help a Christian, but they do not make the Christian, the students said. Their chief purpose is to get inspiration for the week's work.

Conduct of some young people in church was decryed by the students. Two reasons for their condemnation were given: that by writing notes and otherwise disturbing young people were missing something they need to learn from the service, and that they were discourteous.

Arthur Smith was leader of the discussion.

600 HEAR RAILROAD MAN MAKE PLEA FOR PRACTICE OF SAFETY

Dangers Lurk on Every Corner, Northwestern Safety Chairman Says

Kaukauna — "Conservation of life and limb is of the utmost importance," Frank Wenter Jr., chairman of the central safety committee of the Chicago and Northwestern railroad, told six hundred railroad employees and their friends at the safety rally in the high school auditorium Saturday evening. "It takes a catastrophe now and then to awaken people," Mr. Wenter said. "If only one man is killed they think little of it but when a great many are killed at one time they sit up and take notice. We are living in a dangerous age. Everything is machinery and speed. Years ago we can picture a solitary woman sitting in her home spinning, now we have huge factories turning out millions and millions as much spun material as she did. Great factories with many machines and large masses of men required to operate them make for more accidents than did the solitary spinning wheel. We are living in a dangerous age. We must go about the protection of ourselves from a different angle. In old times the pioneers had to watch for lurking Indians and a possible falling tree, now we need not worry about either of them but we have thousands of other dangers more serious.

"I believe that historians will call the present generation the greatest of all with the numerous inventions by people still living. The automobile, the airplane and the radio are but a few of the wonder things invented in this age, and each of them are dangerous at some stage of construction or operation.

37,000 EMPLOYEES
The Chicago and Northwestern employs 37,000 men on the entire system. It does not seem much to the casual onlooker when a man is hurt in Wyoming but suppose another is hurt in Omaha, another in St. Paul, another in Kaukauna, still another in Milwaukee and so on over the entire system. The total number then is large and the statistics brought into the headquarters at Chicago are appalling. In 1926 forty-five employees of the railroad were killed while at work or as the result of injuries received while at work. Ninety per cent of these accidents could have been avoided. The other five per cent are held un-avoidable.

"It was 17 years ago, or in the year 1910, that the safety movement was born in the brain of Ralph C. Richards, then an employee of the Chicago and Northwestern railroad. As with every other innovation, Mr. Richards had to fight to get the system to spread throughout this country and into many foreign countries. Only a short time ago I received a letter from the Bolshevik government of Russia asking for complete information on safety methods of this railroad. Mr. Richards, originator of the safety idea, that railroads could be operated without a loss of life and limbs, died about a year ago.

"Every official on the Northwestern system is pledged to safety but the cooperation of the employees is necessary to make the safety movement a success.

In nine years ended last year, the Chicago and Northwestern system carried passengers equal to the combined populations of the United States, Canada, England, France and Germany without a single loss of life but in 1926 alone, 45 employees lost their lives. Stopping one careless act may mean the saving of one or more lives.

The teaching of that old Chinese philosopher Confucius should be remembered by all: "Do not do to others what you would not have done to yourself." This saying should be memorized by motorists. A railroad requires a great many years of apprenticeship before a man is allowed to handle an engine alone but a man need only to have the price of a car to drive one. He may be nearly blind, half crazed and totally deaf and still he is permitted on the streets and roads. The great number of railroad crossing accidents is the result. Signs are placed at crossings and elsewhere for a purpose and should be obeyed. Signs are dumb but the man that disregards them is dumber."

John Leppia, superintendent of the Ashland division presided as chairman at the meeting. Mayor W. C. Sullivan welcomed the safety men to Kaukauna and other talks were given by William Ashe of the Thimbury Pulp and Paper corporation, and James F. Kavanaugh, superintendent of schools. A musical program of vocal and instrumental music interspersed the talks.

TIRED STOMACHS COME TO LIFE

And Digest Heavy Meals Just Like a Boy

Diarrhea is probably the most powerful aid there is when the stomach seems worn out. It enables you to get away with foods that so often cause the utmost misery. Pie, cheese, cream, sausage, seasoned steaks and foods that frighten a dyspeptic even to think of, are as modified milk to a young infant when followed by Diapensin.

A host of people are denying themselves half the pleasure of life hunting for patent, prepared foods that don't meet their needs. For after all it is the state of the stomach secretions that counts. Diapensin adds to the secretions and actually works on the starches, meats, eggs, cream, etc., and that is what a tired, feeble stomach needs.

"In case of an extra session of the legislature, no additional compensation shall be allowed to any member thereof, either directly or indirectly, except for mileage, to be computed at the same rate as for a regular session. No stationer, newspaper, printer or other person, except the salary and mileage above provided, shall be received from the state by any member of the legislature for his services or in any other manner as such member."

"Resolved by the assembly, the senate concurring, That the foregoing amendment to the constitution of the state of Wisconsin be and the same is hereby agreed to by this legislature; and be it further

"Resolved, That the foregoing proposed amendment be submitted to vote of the people at the April election in 1927, and if the people shall approve and ratify said amendment by a majority of the electors voting thereon such amendment so ratified shall become a part of the constitution of this state."

The resolution to amend section 1 of article 8 of the constitution, relating to taxation of forests and minerals and of forest and mineral lands, reads:

"Whereas, At the biennial session of the legislature for the year 1925, an amendment to the constitution was proposed and agreed to by a majority of the members elected to each of the two houses, which proposed amendment is as follows:

"Article 8, Section 1. The rule of taxation shall be uniform, and taxes shall be levied upon such property with such classifications as to forests and minerals, including or separate or severed from the land, as the legislature shall prescribe. Taxes may also be imposed on incomes, privileges and occupations, which taxes may be graduated and progressive, and reasonable exemptions may be provided."

CLARA BOW-ELINOR GLYN COMBINATION A FINE ONE

The launching of Clara Bow as a star and the return of Elinor Glyn to Paramount is, from the public's standpoint, one of those fortunate things that occur all too rarely in motion pictures. And what was an even more fortunate stroke was the uniting of the famous flapper and the distinguished English novelist in a single film.

In the event that these statements are doubted, we strongly recommend that all doubters attend the Fisher's Appleton Theatre and witness the result of this combination in the Elinor Glyn-Clarence Badger production, "IT," which opened last evening.

For exquisite comedy and touches of heart-riveting pathos, Paramount's latest takes rank among the outstanding releases of the current season. Miss Bow portrays a vivacious American shop-girl possessed of the strange power of "IT," as explained by Elinor Glyn early in the picture.

And, after learning the true definition of her theory, attend the Fisher's Appleton Theatre and witness the result of this combination in the Elinor Glyn-Clarence Badger production, "IT," which opened last evening.

POSTOFFICE HANDLES 200 CHICKS EACH DAY

An average of 200 baby chicks daily have been coming into the Appleton postoffice this week for chicken farms operated by farmers near Appleton. Eight hundred were received one day, but a smaller number on others. This is an unusually early date for the young chicks to come as the season does not open most years until April 1.

Most of the chicks have been shipped from states south of Wisconsin indicating that an early spring has come there as well as in the northern states, it was said at the postoffice. Instructions for shipping young chicks may be secured at the postoffice. It was advised that those who are not familiar with the process consult the authorities before mailing as special care is necessary.

HIGH SCHOOL RECEIVES 2 ROOSEVELT PICTURES

Two pictures of Theodore Roosevelt have been received at Appleton high school from the national headquarters of the American Defense society in New York city. They will be framed and hung in the school building. One probably will be hung in the school office.

The last public message of the famous statesman is printed beneath the picture. It was read at the Hippodrome in New York City Jan. 5, 1919, the night before his death.

Why Contract Bonds?

If the successful completion of building projects were merely contingent upon the honesty and ability of the contractors selected, Contract Bonds would be a drug on the market.

Unfortunately, honesty and ability are not the only factors which determine the successful completion of a building contract. No matter how trustworthy and capable a contractor may be, any one of a dozen circumstances beyond his control may make it impossible for him to complete work according to the terms and specifications of his contract.

Hence, the necessity for Contract Bonds, which GUARANTEE that neither dishonesty, nor human weaknesses and mistakes shall prevent contracts from being successfully completed.

No matter what you are going to build, before you award the contract, let me tell you all about Contract Bonds.

ONE-ARMED CADDY IS ALL-AROUND BOY

Grand Rapids Youth Takes Part in Dozen Sports in Spite of Handicap

Grand Rapids, Mich.—Name your sport and Vic Shipnala, a 17-year-old caddy here, minus one arm, will play with you!

Shipnala goes in for every sport known. He shoots 15 holes of golf in the low eighties. He plays football, basketball, baseball and tennis. He swims, wrestles, boxes and hunts. He plays billiards, drives an automobile and draws cartoons.

His latest feat was the winning of the caddies' golf tournament here with a score of 53.

He thinks, and so does Al Watrous, Grand Rapids' well-known pro, that he will be able to shoot in the seventies before the summer ends.

Shipnala lost his arm when he was 10 years old. He fell out of a tree, broke it, and was forced to have it amputated at the shoulder when blood poisoning set in.

Being encumbered only steeled his determination to be a success in any branch of athletics he chose.

From his present activities, one can hardly think otherwise of him than as a success. He is versatile, to say the least.

JOLIET CAGERS WIN CATHOLIC TOURNEY

Chicago—(P)—The iron men of the National Catholic interscholastic basketball tournament held at Loyola University here Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday, proved to be the LaSalle team of Joliet, Ill. This team, after playing three overtime periods in their afternoon game Sunday to defeat Most Holy Rosary of Syracuse by a score of 29 to 27, came back full of pep Sunday night and won the national Catholic high school title by beating Roman Catholic high of Philadelphia, 25 to 11.

His excellency, George, Cardinal Mundelein, arrived between the halves of the consolation game to present J. Stevens, Joliet, with a trophy which he donates each year to the winner of the title.

HIGH DOUBLES SCORE

Milwaukee—(P)—Competing in a tango bowling tournament at Koebe's Alleys here Sunday, Freddie Kuehlback and Billy Sixty, Milwaukee sports writers, shot a 1,497 total in doubles. Both accomplished the unusual feat of counting over 700. Kuehlback hitting 703 and Sixty 794.

Athletic Supremacy In Colleges Runs In Streak

New York—(P)—College athletic supremacy, to an extent probably greater than in any other sphere of sports, runs in streaks.

The winning spirit of youth, the ability of some coaches to establish and maintain successful standards, plus the attraction of star talent by the winners—all these factors seem to figure in collegiate marches of victory.

The University of Kansas, for example, has just won the Missouri Valley Conference basketball title for the sixth straight year. California's basket tossers are on top for the fourth season in a row. A four-year streak by North Carolina in the Southern conference was ended by Vanderbilt's triumph.

In Western Conference ranks, Illinois has a habit of reigning supreme in wrestling and Michigan in track. Yale has had a straight-hold on swimming honors in the Eastern sector. Harvard has just started to build up an indoor track winning streak by taking the I. C. A. A. A. title for the second straight year. Outdoors, Southern California's track and field men have lifted the East's main prize two years in a row.

These are sufficient to show how widespread is the tendency of a college to build up and maintain its supremacy on one branch of sport or another.

When rowing is mentioned, the observer now instinctively thinks of Washington and the Navy, whose varsity eight has shared the rulership of intercollegiate seas at Poughkeepsie over a six year period. Or of Yale, where Ed Leader has turned the Eli crew through three successive seasons of varsity triumph.

Football has witnessed less of this sort of consistency in recent years, with more teams battling on fairly even terms, but Alabama, at least, is an exception with its record of three straight Southern Conference championships. California has hit the downward path after a streak of five straight years without a defeat.

It has taken only about a dozen years or two decades at the most to bring about a complete shake-up in the college championship roost. That many moons ago Cornell's name was synonymous with success in rowing, track and field or cross country, three sports in which the Ithacaans hung up simultaneous winning streaks that probably have had no parallel.

HONORED

ERIC C. LAMBERT
Only a sophomore and never the winner of a varsity letter, yet captain this year of a crew that may win the Loughkeepsie regatta—that is Eric C. Lambert, elected captain of the Columbia varsity crew a few days ago.

Lambert was struck of the 1926 freshman crew. He is believed the first sophomore ever to captain the Columbia varsity crew.

KANSAS CITY WILL HOLD '28 PINFEST

Difficulties Between A. B. C. and World Classic Men Smoothed Out

Peoria, Ill.—(P)—The American Bowling congress will hold the 1928 congress at Kansas City, it was decided at the business session Friday when officers were elected, Difficulties between the A. B. C. officials and a faction of delayers who favored so called "classic" tournaments were smoothed away by the A. B. C.'s raising its maximum entry for tournaments under their sanction from 35 to 225, the latter amount being that used in the "classic" meets. The "world's classic" which had been planned for Detroit next month will be cancelled, said Louis Peterson, who headed the "classic" faction.

N-M DEMOLAY CAGERS LOSE TO MADISON MEN

Madison—Holding their opponents to two lone tallies, Coach Bob Hesse's Madison quintet won the state Demolay championship for the second consecutive year by smothering Neenah-Menasha in the finals by a 30 to 11 score, here Saturday night.

Inability to hold down Chuck Kaiser and Fishy Sanders, the Madison scoring aces, cost Menasha the game. Menasha threatened to hold down the winners' scoring spurt in the initial quarter the consistent basket shooting of their superior rivals.

Paraboo capped the consolation flight, defeating Stevens Point 19 to 16. Red Mould, flashy forward, and Bonham, stellar guard, featured on the offense for the winners. Gunning led the losers' scoring with three field goals. Paraboo led at half time, 12 to 2.

Phillies Show Little Improvement Over 1926

BY BILLY EVANS.
Bradenton, Fla.—For several years it has been a much mooted question among fans as to just what league the Phillies were in. Surely not the National!

Keeping the Phillies in the league is the task that confronts Manager "Stuffy" McInnis, new pilot of the Philadelphia Nationals. It is quite some job.

It is customary to blame the failure of a major league club on the manager, yet no man can win ball games unless he has the material to work with. That has been the prevailing fault of the Phillies.

No manager, no matter how smart he may be, can make hits in a pinch or strike the batter out with the bases filled. That is up to the ball players.

"Stuffy" McInnis, a brilliant ball player in his day, with plenty of gray matter, trained under one of baseball's greatest leaders, Connie Mack—"Stuffy" knows the game. He is a likable chap, and I am sure his players will give him their best efforts. But it takes more than good wishes and kindly feelings to win ball games.

Philadelphia managers in the past have been handicapped in their usually futile efforts to escape last place. It remains to be seen how well McInnis can win ball games with the material at hand.

Being smart, "Stuffy" fully realizes the task that is ahead. He frankly admits that at least four clubs, possibly five, have a decided edge on him. He has no visions of a first division berth, although I am sure to land one would be more than acceptable.

Paraboo capped the consolation flight, defeating Stevens Point 19 to 16. Red Mould, flashy forward, and Bonham, stellar guard, featured on the offense for the winners. Gunning led the losers' scoring with three field goals. Paraboo led at half time, 12 to 2.

Knowing the part efficient pitching plays in baseball, McInnis, through the medium of several trades, has considerably changed the personnel of his staff.

It is his hope that the veteran John Scott, obtained from the New York Giants, and Alexander Ferguson and Herb Pruett, American League pitchers, will help his ball club. I feel that this trio will do that very thing, but whether enough to keep the club out of the cellar is a question.

John Scott, who has had a meteoric career in the National League, varying from a world series hero to a pitcher waived out of the majors because of a supposed incurable arm, is still a pretty good bet. He knows how to pitch and how to get the ball out of his hand.

Alex Ferguson will be recalled as the pitcher who lent the Washington club in the running in the 1923 series with Pittsburgh by working two great games. Pruett, as a member of the St. Louis Browns, gained fame by his ability to strike out Babe Ruth almost as he pleased. He didn't lead the other hitters so soft.

McInnis believes these three experienced pitchers, plus Harold Carson, a mighty "line performer," and Wayland Dean, former Giant, will help round out a big league combination.

Of his recruits, Edward "Lefty" Taber, a semipro looks promising. Watch him hold the Washington club to six hits and two runs in five innings. Taber wears heavy spectacles while pitching, similar to those used by Lee Meadows when he starred for the Phillies.

I wish "Stuffy" McInnis huge good luck, for he is a fine fellow; but I fear he will have plenty to worry about before the 1927 season is over.

THREE STATE CAGING MEETS ARE DECIDE

Milwaukee—(P)—With the title winners of three basketball tournaments in Wisconsin decided Saturday night, interest in the cage warfare is the Badger state which winds up the season centers Monday on the state high school battle opening Wednesday at Madison with 16 district winners participating.

LITTLE CHUTE FIVE WINS BASKET TITLE AT RIPPON TOURNEY

Chute Highs Beat Poynette, 21-14, to Cop Supplementary Cage Meet

Little Chute—Little Chute high school basketball team, coached by Carl "Cully" Fahlstrom, closed a successful season by taking first place at the Rippon college supplementary tournament at Rippon, Thursday, Friday and Saturday. The tourney is held under the auspices of the Wisconsin Interscholastic Athletic Association, and is much the same as a district meet except that it is for smaller high schools of the state.

The Chutemen topped the title Saturday evening by a 21-14 victory over Poynette in a game that was neck and neck until the final quarter. The score was 13-13 at the end of the third period and the final session of the game was a close one with Little Chute boys scored eight points while holding Poynette to a free throw. In the opener Hortonville high took third place by beating Oakfield in easy fashion, 26-19.

The Chute team won the silver basketball trophy presented by the college for first place and eight gold medals. Players receiving the medals were Captain Harold Versteegen, Robert Versteegen, Wilbert Vandenberg, Joseph Wildenberg, Howard Huntington, Gerald Versteegen and Lloyd Schreiber and Coach Fahlstrom. Beside Coach Fahlstrom, Rex Randall, athletic director, and Paul Peeters, business manager, accompanied the team. A large crowd of Little Chute fans witnessed the finals. Members of the Poynette team received silver medals and Hortonville bronze medals.

The Chute squad went into the finals easily by beating Campbellsport, 41-10, Thursday afternoon and Oakfield, 21-14, Friday evening. Poynette was a favorite to beat the Chutemen for first after having beaten the strong Hortonville five in their opening battle and Rosendale by a tossup in the second round. Little Chute was to be evened matched with Hortonville, giving Poynette the edge in the final game.

Teams entered were among the best under the enrollment of 150 of state high schools. The eight teams were:

Little Chute, Poynette, Hortonville, Oakfield, Rosendale, Kewaskum, Campbellsport, Glen Beulah.

The trophy and medals won by the Chutemen will be in the Versteegen Hardware store window this week.

APPLETON CUBS TEAM

REORGANIZED FOR YEAR

Reorganization of the Appleton Cubs baseball team for the 1927 season was started last week at the Y. M. C. A. when F. Laabs was elected captain and Walter Murphy, manager. A discussion on playing grounds and support took place and plans were made to form the team into a permanent boys' club and admit new members. A scorekeeper was selected to travel with the team.

Members of the present team have played together for the last few seasons and expect to stick to create more home talent players. A regular of last year's team now at Marquette University will be with the team after the school year.

The Cubs established a fine record last year, winning 12 of 17 games. They will play independent ball again this year. They issue a challenge to any amateur team of the Fox river valley and surrounding territory, especially to teams they met last year. Teams desiring games are asked to communicate with Walter Murphy, 1427 W. College-ave, phone 3628.

All the players of last year's team who have turned out again this year are F. Laabs, Ed Helms, Erv Helms, Frank Buss, Joseph Deffosse, Ralph Murphy, Carl Newman, Lionel Krueger, Reynold Krause, Bud Kuohli, Gordon Malueg and Walter Murphy. An attempt has been made by the Cubs to establish a Valley amateur league but the idea was dropped as a conflict would arise between Saturday or Sunday baseball because many players would be unable to play.

Athletic's Vet Stars Will Open 1927 Season

Ft. Myers, Fla.—What disposition does Connie Mack intend to make of his trio of recently acquired veteran stars—Ty Cobb, Eddie Collins and Zach Wheat?

The tactician manager of the Athletics, who seldom speaks out of turn and always says a mouthful when he opens up, has definitely set to rest all rumors and doubts.

"Collins will positively start the season at second base," says Mack. "He has reported in fine shape his leg is not troubling him at all and is confident he will not only start but finish. If Cobb and Wheat are in shape when the season opens, both will play regularly. Wheat in left, Cobb in right, with Simmons in center."

"I have no desire to rush either. I am allowing them to condition themselves, feeling that each knows what is best for him and how much work he can stand."

"Both look fine and feel sure they will be fit to answer when the bell rings. If either isn't, I have French and Lamar in reserve. The latter is such a fine hitter that there is always the chance that he may crowd any one out of a berth."

"Probably neither Cobb or Wheat will be able to get the full route, but what a help they are going to be when in there, with those big bats they swing."

Marquette Runner in Brilliant Two-Mile

Kimberly—The second place K-C Athletics will make their last home appearance in a Wisconsin State Basketball League game when they meet the speedy, league-leading Sheboygan American Legion team at the Kimberly clubhouse on Thursday, March 24. This game is the feature attraction of the league season, as Sheboygan slipped a win over the Kimberly team at Sheboygan, 26 to 20, earlier in the season. Since that date, however, Kimberly has opened up and have shown some real class in their recent games. Looking in the opening game at Kansas City in the National A. A. U. Tournament, the K-C squad ran up 38 points against their speedy opponents, but were unable to hold the Missouri team in check. Kimberly also has games scheduled with Neenah at that city and another game at Fond du Lac for Saturday to end the 1927 season.

Kenosha Loses Final Game in K. C. Tourney

Kansas City, Mo.—(P)—The Hilliard Chemical Co. basketball quintet of St. Joseph, Mo., annexed its second consecutive championship when it defeated the Kenosha team of the National A. A. U. tournament here Saturday night, 29 to 10. The Hilliards won the title last year.

After surprising as the "dark horse" to sweep all opposition before it, the Kenosha quintet was visibly tired in the final match and the Kansas City champions had an easy time in the finish.

WOMAN'S CLUB CAGERS WHIP NEENAH SEXTET

Appleton Women's club cagers took their second straight win of the season over the Neenah Girls club Saturday evening at 21-14 in a fast and hard-fought battle, 23-21. The winner was not determined until the final seconds of play. Green scored 10 points for Appleton and Meyer 11 Johnson scored 14 Neenah points and Copp 7. On March 20, the local team meets the Manitowoc Follies five here at Alexander gymnasium. The teams battled to a 26-26 tie at Manitowoc recently but the local girls are confident of victory here after the two defeats of Neenah.

Lineups Saturday evening:
Appleton—Meyers and Green (C), forwards; Hitchler, center; Tillman, line center; Schneider Steiner and Landers, guards.

Neenah—Johnson and Copp (C), forwards; Berg, center; Parker, side center; Webster and Henneberry, guards.

Two building permits authorizing improvements estimated at $7,200 were issued Saturday by the building inspector. They were, Hubert Bagert, 323 W. Franklin st, kitchen and garage; Louis M. Sager, 1014 N. Fair st, residence and garage.

HOWLEY SAYS BOLEY IS STELLAR PLAYER

New Brown Leader Classes Mack Shortstop "Greatest I Have Ever Seen"

Ft. Myers, Fla.—Joe Boley is the greatest shortstop I have ever seen in action," says Manager Dan Howley of the St. Louis Browns, about Connie Mack's new infielder.

Boley hails from the Baltimore team of the International League. For three years Dan Howley, as manager of the Toronto club of the same league, had plenty of chance to closely observe his play.

It was Howley who last season broke Baltimore's record of seven consecutive pennants.

"I know I am making a broad statement when I say Boley is the best shortstop I have ever seen play the position, but I am willing to stand back of it."

"What is more, I have been in baseball about 20 years and during that time I have seen every great star at that position."

"Boley was a big leaguer five years ago. He could have stepped in then and set either of the majors on fire. He is such a graceful player, who makes all chances look easy, that it is hard to thoroughly appreciate his remarkable ability."

"He will have the American League talking plenty about him this summer."

ADVOCATE HEALTH PRECAUTIONS IN TOURISTS' CAMPS

Bill Proposing Enforced Sanitation in Such Camps Has Hearing

Madison—(P)—Additional health precautions about Wisconsin tourist camps, numbering close to 250, were advocated before the committee on public welfare at a hearing conducted on a bill to enforce sanitation in such camps.

Dr. G. A. Harper, state health officer, speaking for the measure, which was originally introduced by Assemblyman Wollen, declared that "the public was entitled to a great measure of protection along health and sanitary lines than is now afforded by many camps."

Additional arguments were offered by Frank L. King, domestic sanitary engineer. "The demand for this control of tourist camps," he said, "comes from that large element of motor tourists who are accustomed to enjoy clean, decent home conditions and who rebel against the opposite state of things in the camps which they patronize when away from home with their families."

"The trouble with many tourist camps is that too many people who hit the broad highways of our state are careless and irresponsible and devoid of a proper respect for the rights of others who come after them. Away from home, relaxing from the rigors of the day, they ignore entirely their obligations to the stranger who visits the same camp and who is entitled to its comforts and conveniences. They leave their garbage and rubbish on the ground, oblivious of the contents that stand conveniently near. It is camps of this type who bring camp sites into disrepute and contribute to the unfavorable reputation of such towns with the touring public."

Mr. King declared the demand for uniform sanitary rules governing water supply, waste disposal and safe bathing conditions has been voiced by many of the owners and operators of summer camps for boys and girls. At least 16 states, few of them possessing Wisconsin's natural advantages for summer recreation, he said, already are enforcing such rules. Summer camps for young people already are bringing more than a million dollars a year to Wisconsin, he said, and this revenue will be swelled to many millions in the course of a few years, as fuller advantage is taken of Wisconsin's natural resources for summer recreation.

Miss Zillmer, lecturer in social education told the committee of the desire of parents for clean environment in camps of all kinds and of the favorable influence upon morals which a clean camp exerts.

The attitude of the summer camp operators was expressed by the Rev. E. A. Finn, Waukesha, interested in religious camps for young people on Wisconsin lakes. He said the summer camp movement has long needed a state policy on this subject, with central leadership to enforce needed rules.

STATE PRISON IS REALIZING PROFIT

Special Legislative Committee Reports Money on Credit Side of Ledger

Madison—(P)—The state prison at Waupun is making money. This is one of the points brought out by the report of the committee of the legislature appointed to visit state institutions. It shows that the prison expenditures for operation are $220,000 with total receipts, coming from wine factory, knitting plant, shoe factory, license plate factory, etc., $287,000—a difference of about $170,000 on the credit side of the ledger.

On March 1, there were 336 inmates with 98 employees compared with 755 inmates and 91 employees in 1925, the report reveals. Prison farm land totals 500 acres; there are 43 horses, 241 head of cattle and 283 hogs, it shows.

The report says, in part: "The actual cost for feeding the people is on the average five cents per meal."

"In investigating the prison and all the farms we find everything in a clean and systematic condition. We have a favorable impression of the way things are handled. We do not feel like making a recommendation of any change in the personnel, or the way that the present staff is handling the activities of the prison."

"We find 23 inmates and 4 attendants in the women's prison. The overhead expense for handling the women is considerably higher than the men, for the reason that a great many of them are old and can not do any work. The Warden and the Board of Control suggested that it would be advisable to move these women to some able influence upon morals which a clean camp exerts."

The attitude of the summer camp operators was expressed by the Rev. E. A. Finn, Waukesha, interested in religious camps for young people on Wisconsin lakes. He said the summer camp movement has long needed a state policy on this subject, with central leadership to enforce needed rules.

BUTLER FUNERAL IS HELD AT NEW LONDONAged Woman Was Pioneer in Vicinity of Northport

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—The funeral of Mrs. Ann Butler, 80, who died at her home on Wolf River-ave on Friday evening, was conducted Monday morning, at 9:30 o'clock at Parish hall by the Rev. Otto Kolbe of the Catholic church. Burial was made in St. Patrick's cemetery, at Lebanon. The pall bearers were John Sullivan, Louis Peters, Philip Wilson, Wallace Wilson of Lebanon, David Egan and Bert Schaller of this city.

The death of Mrs. Butler sees the passing of one of the few remaining early pioneers of the community. Ann Butler, daughter of Felix and Mary O'Brien, was born at Illinois River, Port Edward's island, Canada. When the family came to Wisconsin, it made its way in canoes up the Wolf river, landing finally at a point a mile west of the present bridge at Northport. The site selected as the first landing place later became the homestead of the O'Brien family, and members of the family assert that when Felix O'Brien entered his land he walked the entire distance to the land office at Menasha, where the legal papers were drawn.

Mrs. Butler's younger sister, Nora, who later became the wife of Sheldon Bradt, Civil war veteran who still lives on the old O'Brien farm at Northport, was the first white child born in Mukwa township, it is said. During Mrs. Butler's girlhood she taught school at Phillips Bridge, Lebanon and Northport. Her father helped to build the first schoolhouse erected near the bridge at the long vanished village of Phillips Mills and he was a prime factor in organizing the first Catholic church to be built at Northport.

Ann O'Brien and Patrick Butler were married Oct. 2, 1876, at the Catholic church in Lebanon. They lived upon the Butler farm in Lebanon until they moved to this city, some years ago. Patrick Butler's death occurred seven years ago.

Madison — (AP) — Rickety vehicles bearing the "collegiate" stamp are being primed in various university and college localities of Wisconsin as spring rides in on zephyr waves, and the coon-skin coats of the undergraduates are relegated to moth-proof bags.

Delapidated flivvers race the streets of Madison, Appleton, Ripon, Beloit and Milwaukee, loaded with "eds" and coeds. Winter-worn suits are placed in the discard and a hat becomes an "unnecessary impediment."

In short, whether premature or not, the spring fever has descended on the institutions of higher learning, marked by the outdoor urge.

The coeds are relinquishing their raccoons for leather jackets at Lawrence college, while felthats are being replaced by black and white creations.

Fashion's craze also extends deep into the ranks of the men students, as well as the parental cash, with light suits and flashy ties predominating. With the passing of winter comes the retreat of ice boats from Madison lakes, a diversion engaged in by hundreds of University of Wisconsin students during the frigid months. The ice on the surface of the lakes has become "rubbery" and unsafe.

Outdoor activities are in full swing extending from the courts where half-hearted ball games are in progress, to the athletic haunts of track performers.

Oshkosh Park Board Trying To Find Way To Increase Municipal Golf Facilities

(This is the first of a series of articles on municipal golf courses in Wisconsin prepared by a staff correspondent of The Post-Crescent after visits to cities which maintain municipal courses. The subject of the first article which will appear in a few days.)

Five years ago the number of golf courses in Oshkosh was one. Now there are five. The city of Oshkosh has been increasing so rapidly that the Oshkosh city commission is thinking seriously of floating a bond issue for $45,000 to finance the construction of an 18-hole course across the street from the present course, according to City Commissioner John Voss who is in charge of parks. Last year 18,573 persons paid the 25 cent fee for the use of the links, producing a revenue of $4,643.50. In 1922, when the links was opened, only 4,689 fees were paid for a revenue of $1,172.

In five years the number of golf courses in Oshkosh has increased from one to five. The city of Oshkosh has been increasing so rapidly that the Oshkosh city commission is thinking seriously of floating a bond issue for $45,000 to finance the construction of an 18-hole course across the street from the present course, according to City Commissioner John Voss who is in charge of parks. Last year 18,573 persons paid the 25 cent fee for the use of the links, producing a revenue of $4,643.50. In 1922, when the links was opened, only 4,689 fees were paid for a revenue of $1,172.

Several other Oshkosh golf courses are being planned. It is expected that steps soon will be taken to meet the growing demand for the outdoor game in the Savdust city.

PAY THEIR WAY
Because Mary Jewell park, in which golf links are located, is not devoted entirely to golf it is difficult to determine exactly whether the city links are making money for the city but it is quite evident they are self supporting. Last year the entire maintenance cost charged to Mary Jewell park was slightly more than $3,000 and this included the care of the golf course, a bathing beach and other park facilities.

The salary list for Mary Jewell park includes a caretaker who is paid $100 a month and three or four assistants who receive $125 a day. Three men are employed all summer and at times a fourth man is engaged. These men take care of the municipal links, the bathing beach and keep the entire park in repair. The only charge against the city is the water rental and equipment. Last year the water rental amounted to a little more than $200.

The park budget this year includes an appropriation of $5,135 for Mary Jewell park of which about $5,500 is for the municipal links. This budget includes an appropriation of $450 for a new tractor and $300 for a power mower. The remainder is for salaries and other expenses. All changes and improvements in the course are against the maintenance cost. A year ago a swampy area was filled in and the new 18-hole was moved back about 100 feet, but the cost of this improvement was charged to the yearly maintenance. No revenue is derived from the bathing beach or from any other activity in Mary Jewell park, Mr. Voss said.

BIGGEST PROBLEM
The caretaker's salary of $100 a month is augmented by profits from the clubhouse which he operates as a concession. The city commission has no record of his profits from this source but it is known that he rents out clubs, sells golf supplies and operates a restaurant. He engages his help for this concession.

The biggest problem which Oshkosh has to contend with, Mr. Voss said, is to accommodate the golf players. There were several weeks when as many as 1,200 persons used the course and the congestion was so great that playing was almost impossible. On the few Saturdays and Sundays that the weather was favorable it was almost impossible to get on the links. The only one was ready to start very early in the morning.

CONSIDER NEW COURSE
"We don't know just how to meet this situation," Mr. Voss said. "It has been suggested that we acquire sufficient land near Mary Jewell park to build an 18-hole course to take care of the overflow from the 9-hole course. We think the land can be acquired and the course built for about $45,000 and we are considering a bond issue for that amount. The revenue from the course will not only pay the interest on the bonds but will retire the principal. If the bonds are issued they will mature in small amounts each year and will be retired from the earnings of the course so that there will be no cost to the taxpayers. The golf players will pay for the course in just a few years," Mr. Voss believes.

A new system of fees will be in effect this year, Mr. Voss said. Heretofore permits were issued for 25 cents for a half day and golfers played as long as they wished but under the new system permits will be issued for 25 cents for the first game, 15 cents for the second, 25 cents for the third, and so on. It is expected this will materially increase the revenue and will not be a serious drain on the players.

It has been suggested, according to Mr. Voss, that if an 18-hole course is built that the fee for that course be 50 or 60 cents and the fee for the 9-hole course remain as it is. These details, however, have not been worked out.

POPULAR WITH LAROR
While the majority of the persons using the Oshkosh course are office employees and others who have leisure time in the day, early in the morning and on Saturday afternoons, there is a steady increase in the number of golfers when the links are open. There is some disposition on the part of the trades and labor council to oppose a bond issue to enlarge the links but the laboring men have opposed the present course, according to John Basing, president of the Oshkosh Trades and Labor council.

The opposition to enlargement of the park is based largely on the feeling that purchase of this property will take a considerable slice off the tax roll, Mr. Basing said. There has been but little consideration given this matter, however, Mr. Basing said.

"Quite a number of my friends play golf and like the game," Mr. Basing declared. "I don't know much about it myself but from what I have heard I think it is a splendid exercise and I am in favor of a municipal links."

The principal opposition to enlargement of the Oshkosh course is coming from men who are members of the Oshkosh Country club, according to information received in Oshkosh. These men play the game on their privately owned course and are objecting to enlarging golfing facilities for those who cannot join the exclusive private clubs.

$10,000 PARK
Mary Jewell park is worth approximately $40,000 now, Mr. Voss said, but the city of Oshkosh has spent only about $10,000 of the taxpayer's money on the golf links. Part of the property was donated to the city and some of the work on the links also was donated. Improvements to the park were made largely out of revenue from the golf course.

Oshkosh city officials do not figure interest on the cost of the park in their computation of park costs, because this item is not considered in the computation of the costs of any city park. Leaving out this item the municipal golf links last year returned a profit of close to $1,300 after new equipment was purchased.

This year the profit is expected to be still larger, in spite of the investment of close to $1,000 in new machinery.

2 MINOR AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENTS REPORTED

Two minor automobile accidents were reported at police headquarters over the weekend. Damage was slight in both instances, and nobody was injured.

When a Smith taxicab, driven by Harry Kohl, 1919 N. Division-st., headed west on W. Prospect-ave, stopped for the arterial highway sign at S. Cherry-st., at 7:30 Saturday evening, an unknown motorist struck the cab in the rear, and drove away without stopping. The left rear fender of the cab was bent.

A hydrant at the southwest corner of W. Wisconsin-ave and N. Leminwal-st. was moved about nine inches when struck by an automobile at 9 o'clock Sunday morning. The motorist, Walter Nelson, Peshigo, who was going west on W. Wisconsin-ave, skidded into the hydrant. The front axle of his automobile was sprung.

CONTRACT FOR PLATTING ATHLETIC FIELD IS LET
Contract for plating the former Lawrence college athletic field on N. Mead-st. was given last week to Laabs and Shepherd Real Estate company by Board of Appleton and E. F. Since that time the senior high school has been using the field to practice for track meets.

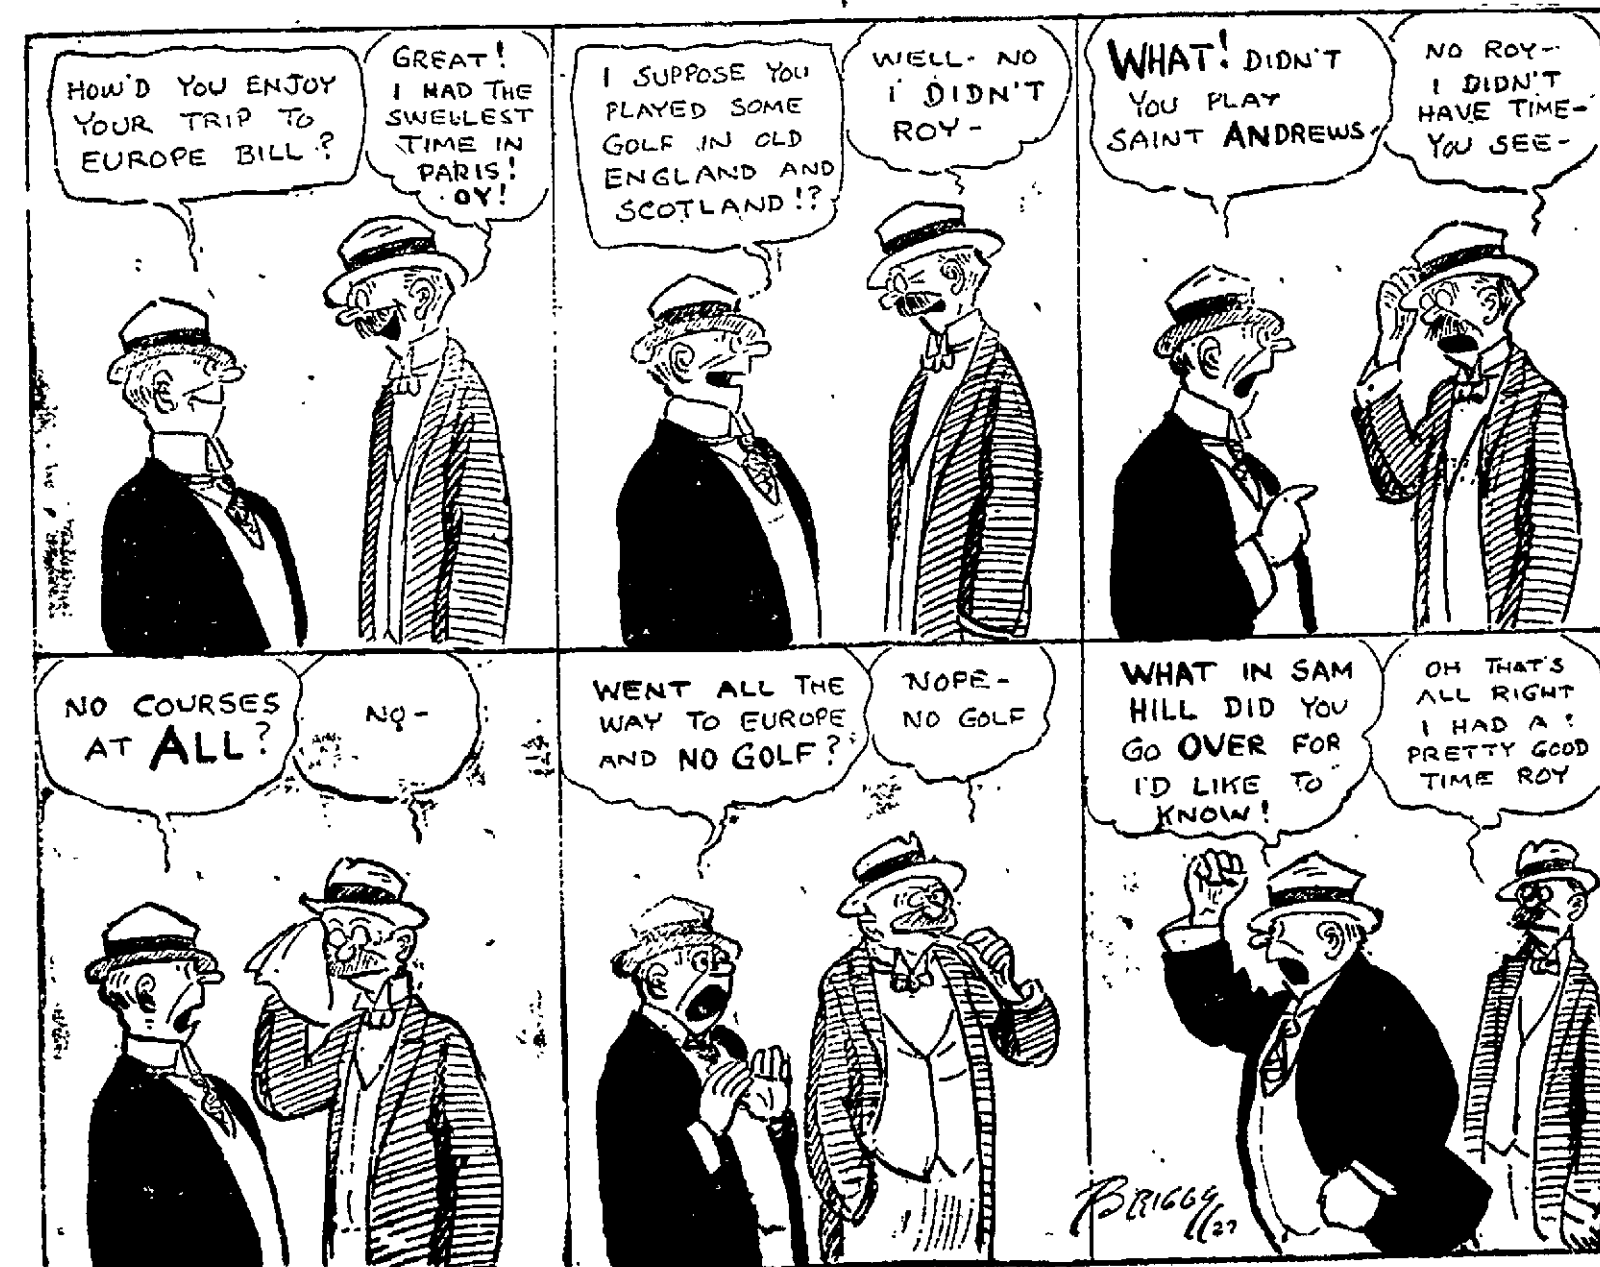

As soon as weather permits the field will be divided into 20 lots and a sale will be held. It is expected to present the plat plan to the common council for approval at its next meeting.

He will be confined for about a week, according to the attending physician. The car was not badly damaged.

LENROOT "THANKS" BACK FOR DEBATE*Assembly Again Will Wrestle With Resolution of Gratitude to Senator

Madison—(P)—With an unusually large number of the resolution expressing appreciation of the legislators to former United States Senator Irvine L. Lenroot for his work in the enactment of a federal duty law at the head of the list, the assembly Tuesday is expected to have a protracted session.

The Lenroot resolution, passed in the assembly after it had been amended to thank the whole Wisconsin congressional delegation, struck a snag in the senate and was amended back before final passage to its first stage. Debate on the amendment will probably engage the assembly for some time.

The resolution of Assemblyman Spott, denouncing the city of Madison for the speed at which automobiles are permitted to travel around capital square is up for consideration after being returned to the author last week to be couched in more conciliatory terms.

The resolution by Speaker Eber asking appointment of a special joint committee upon repeal of obsolete laws, was passed by the assembly before the lower house. Still another is the resolution passed by the senate originated by Senator Casperson, asking congress to adopt a resolution now before it against "dollar diplomacy."

Joint resolution by Assemblyman Ingalls, asking a joint legislative interim committee to investigate forestry conservation and water power, recommended for indefinite postponement by the senate committee, is in the calendar for speed. The long calendar lies in the fact that the question of many of the bills is only upon ordering them on.

TWO MINOR FIRES ARE PUT OUT OVER WEEKEND

Girl Flees Sheriff's Wife While Being Led To Jail*Assembled Again Will Wrestle With Resolution of Gratitude to Senator

A 15-year-old Kimberly girl, sentenced by Judge Fred W. Heinemann to the industrial school for girls at Milwaukee until she is 21, caused Sheriff and Mrs. Otto H. Zuehlke more than last Saturday morning, than might be expected from a desperate convict before she finally was taken to Milwaukee by Walter Scherck, deputy sheriff. She is Corinne Vander Heiden.

It was while Mrs. Zuehlke was taking the girl back to jail after her appearance in court that the worry began, and it didn't end until late that afternoon.

As Mrs. Zuehlke was leading the girl through the fall to a cell, the latter suddenly jumped away, ran the side, and was six or seven blocks away within a minute. Mrs. Zuehlke immediately notified the sheriff, and after a search of several hours the youthful fugitive was found in a Kimberly store buying some clothing.

Deputy-Sheriff Scherck then took her in custody and accompanied her to the Milwaukee institution the same day.

Corinne and another Kimberly girl, said to be only 14 years old, were arrested in Chicago last week in a raid on a Negro vice resort. Their parents were notified, and the girls were brought home.

Corinne's father, after attempting to reform his daughter, finally reported to officials that he could do nothing with her, and she was taken before Judge Heinemann.

Although her confinement to the industrial school will not be completed until she is 21, the prospect of the sentence did not appear to bother her.

"Just watch my smoke when I get out," she told the judge after he had pronounced sentence.

AIR BATTLE BEGINS AS CONGRESSMEN ALL LEAVE WASHINGTON

Radio Commission Prepares to Face Army of Broadcasters, Lawyers

BY ISRAEL KLEIN

With the departure of congressmen, lobbyists and political hangers-on from Washington, a new army is preparing to converge on the capital.

It is an army of congressmen and their attorneys, of representatives of radio societies, of radio engineers and "experts," some prepared to fight for their present rights, others aimed for new privileges, all yelling in one inharmonious din.

"We want the air!" Behind a bulwark of final authority hurriedly set up by the new radio law that Congress has passed will be the radio commission appointed by President Coolidge.

ITS WORD WILL BE LAW There will be a hot fight. But small as it is against the thousands who will converge upon it, the commission is confident of victory, for the new law gives it complete and final authority over the whole situation.

That is, so far as the law goes. But there is a general fear that the federal courts soon will rule in a case against civil lawsuits, against the government and individual broadcasters, for alleged rights which the commission has denied.

The army of 733 broadcasters, about 200 additional applicants for broadcasting licenses, about 15,000 holders of commercial and amateur licenses, their attorneys, engineers and radio organization representatives doubtless will put up a complicated battle.

There will be little trouble disposing of all but the broadcasters. Wavelengths and power are set definitely for the amateur and commercial stations, and there is no interference among them.

ONLY 89 WAVELENGTHS The broadcasters will come with stolen wavelengths, increased power, local congestion, interference in time, heterodyning of signals and a conglomeration of other difficulties.

All this the commission has the power to iron out, but that's the problem. There are only 89 wavelengths available for broadcasting, with 733 now on the air using these 89 among them and some 200 more demanding recognition.

The commission's first step will be an exhaustive study of the situation. Engineers and other specialists will be called in. From their testimony the commission will have to decide whether wavelengths can be further divided, whether civil lawsuits should be permitted for various ranges of power from five to 50,000 watts, how far apart wavelengths have to be for the same locality and many similar technicalities.

These facts established, the commission will open the doors to the broadcasters. Then they will face further questions of priority, of the most good to fans, of experience and superiority of transmission, of congestion in cities like New York and Chicago, of time disposal and overuse of certain wavelengths.

"PUBLIC INTEREST" FIRST The new law provides the commission may make "such changes as will promote public convenience or interest or will serve public necessity."

This means, in the eyes of many, that the number of broadcasters will have to be reduced to a maximum of 500 stations for the present situation is not a "public convenience."

The commission starts with a free card. All broadcasting licenses are revoked, permitting only 60 days' grace to the existing broadcasters to give the commission time to come to a decision on its many problems.

Its primary purpose will be to distribute stations so as to prevent interference. It has the additional authority to make rules governing types of programs to be broadcast and requiring each broadcaster to keep records of these programs, of the power used, and the signals or other communications handled.

CHAINS WILL BE WATCHED Chain broadcasting comes under its authority, and, if the fear of some against monopolization of this field is also felt by the commission, it may limit the extent of chains.

Wavelength pirates will be banished, and no station will be permitted to change its wavelength, its power, the character of its signal or its time of transmission without the consent of the commission.

Each applicant's claims will be taken up individually, after the commission has decided how wavelengths, time, power and character of signals can be distributed most effectively. Licenses will be for three-year periods, and no complaint heard until after the commission's first year of existence.

Then the secretary of commerce will assume the duty of issuing or revoking licenses and the commission will become an appellate body with final authority.

Not only broadcasters, but fans too

SCHMIEGE WANTS NEW STANDARD OF BUSHEL WEIGHTS

Assembly Committees Start Tuesday on Long Calendar of Hearings

Madison — (AP)—An early start in committee hearings for the week is promised in the calendar for Tuesday's assembly committee work. Six committees have more than their former quotas of bills scheduled.

The committee on agriculture, along with four other bills, is to consider that one by Assemblyman Schmiede setting new weights for standard bushels of green peas, spinach and oranges.

The joint finance committee, under new chairmanship since settlement of its famous "strike," has several appropriation measures to consider. Among these are:

Senator Casperson's measure relating to pensions for the blind and deaf. The interim committee bill altering several of the statutes regarding pollution of inland waters, providing penalties and making an enforcement appropriation.

The interim committee bill making an appropriation for the conservation commission.

The bill by Senator Barker establishing pension for game wardens.

Other conservation bills are scheduled on the assembly floor and game committee calendar for the day. Most of them are measures of local application.

The insurance and banking committee has but one bill scheduled, that by Assemblyman Wood, prohibiting state banks from making loans on the security of stocks of building and loan associations.

Assemblyman Schmiede's bill calling for visible gasoline pumps in gas stations of the state is before the state affairs committee, along with the Koenig bill asking new location for the industrial school for girls and making an appropriation for a new site and building.

Included in the five bills scheduled for taxation committee hearing is that by Assemblyman Kanke relating to exemption of woodlots from taxation and the Seftenberg bill allowing presentation of personal property tax receipts as an offset against state income taxes.

will be heard, when they protest against renewal of a license to any broadcasters to whom they object.

For the first year, the commission members will get $10,000 each. Thereafter each will get $20 a day and expenses for the time they act in their official capacities.

Blue Monday with all wringing—all hand rinsing and blueing—comes only a shadow of the past when you wash and dry the safe, Savage Wringerless Way.

Is Monday your day of "Daze"?

WHY endure longer the back-breaking, health-destroying Monday madness and misery of laundering the old "wringer" way?

There's no need of ever again standing and straining over steaming tubs, lifting up soaked clothes and "feeding" them one at a time to a wringer.

The Savage wringerless washes, rinses, blues and DRIES in the same tub. It ends all wringing, all hand rinse or blueing! It ends "sending out" heavy pieces, and it washes and dries everything, comforters, rugs, robes, mats, even feather pillows as well as the weekly wash!

Union City Will Have Two Times, Thanks To New Bill

Union City, Ohio-Ind.—There'll be a lot of two-timing going on soon in this hitherto upright community.

When Ohio's eastern times bill goes into effect the people on the Ohio side of Main street are going to be an hour ahead of their Indiana brethren on the other side. Indiana will cling to central time.

The ardent Indiana swain will be able to tell the irate Ohio parent he is away ahead of time when the parents tries to send him home at 11 p. m. The swain's turnip will register but ten.

Just imagine a fellow explaining to his wife that he was late for dinner because he happened to walk home on the other side of the street!

Of course, the Brown youngsters will never be satisfied. Night across the street the Jones kids will get to stay up an hour later than they.

Traffic cops will dance in the middle of the street with one leg battling to go home to dinner and the other struggling to stay on the job for another hour.

There will be advantages, though. The tired business man who wishes to be at work by 7 a. m. can set his alarm clock for 8 and laugh it off.

The comely Dora will inform Poppa that it now behooves her to have a watch on each wrist lest the mental strain of computing the time worry her into a nervous collapse.

But then all will have a lot of time on their hands, and it is confidently predicted that a good time will be had by all.

FOR METERMEN'S
SEVENTH SCHOOL

Session Will Be Conducted from April 5 to 9 at University

Announcement of the program for the seventh annual school for electric metermen, which will be held from April 5 to 9 at the University of Wisconsin, has been received by Marshall C. Graff, district representative of the University Extension division. The course usually draws many metermen from public utilities and paper mills in the Fox river valley mills.

The purpose is to assist utilities in training men in the theory and practice of commercial electrical measurements. It is of special value to smaller utilities which do not conduct a training course for metermen. The meeting is divided into four groups, each with competent instructors, for effective work. One joint session is held each day at which topics of general interest to metermen are discussed.

Group one will consist of inexperienced metermen who desire to gain further experience in installation, testing and adjusting of meters. Most of its work will be in the laboratory with some discussion of elementary theory of meters.

Group two with three and four will spend relatively little time in the actual work of connecting meters and their testing but much time in discussion of fundamental theory of metering and the solving of suitable metering problems. The problems will be assigned and each meterman will be expected to solve as many as possible and to hand the solutions to the instructor for correction and criticism.

Group three will be conducted as group two but problems will be more difficult and the theory more involved. Most of the problems will involve principals of polyphase metering.

Group four is intended for meter superintendents and others in charge of meter installations. Problems involving special metering equipment and unusual conditions will be assigned to
